Cheer Up, Cheaper Money. More Men, Says Mussolini. Mr. Mellon's Good Idea. Whoopee, in Mayaland.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AS MONDAY returns, and the click of the ticker is heard in the land, you learn that money is to be easier, according to Federal Reserve authorities. April first, with enormous demand for dividend and interest payments, uses up much cash.

BUT those that get the cash must invest it, and much of it will be poured into the call money market.

Congressmen planning to stop loans for stock speculation will hear from their banking friends, and be asked not to kill the golden egg supply.

PROSPERITY has made Class A commercial paper scarce. ...se once borrowers are now ...ers. It would be a sad day ...anks if there were no call ... keep funds busy.

...hat could be sweeter than 20 per cent, while you are for a permanent invest-

MUSSOLINI attacks birth control, forbidding its practice. He wants more Italians.

Doctors are ordered to report birth control cases of which they have knowledge. Penalties will be inflicted.

Italy's ruler does not allege any moral or religious objections to birth control.

He simply believes that more Italians will mean a greater Italy.

YET France, with a low birth rate, does well. It is a country with practically nobody unemployed. It won the greatest war in all history. That war was won at Verdun by Frenchmen. France has more gold than she ever had, far more than Italy has.

There are many ways of achieving success. Some try for quality, some for quantity.

SECRETARY MELLON, on the radio, declares in favor of ...tting the tax on earned incomes. Income from a mine or oil well, gradually wearing out, is permitted to plead "depletion." Doctors, engineers, merchants and others earning their incomes are also wearing out.

Mr. Mellon believes that such earned incomes should be taxed lower than unearned incomes on bonds, and other investments that represent no wear and tear on the taxpayer.

GREAT BRITAIN long since recognized the injustice of collecting full tax on the worker, ...s out his life, while allowing a deduction for depletion on incomes from mines, etc. Therefore, Britain allows none of the exemptions for depletion allowed in this country.

NATURALLY, from some source, government must get what is needed to run the country. Lowering taxes in one direction must mean increasing in another, barring greater revenue, or better management.

But certainly, if the owner of a ten million dollar coal mine may plead that his mine is worth less than it was 10 years before, a doctor 60 years old should be allowed to plead that his life and energies amount to less than they did 10 years before, and that he is nearer to the end of his productive years.

A FIELD MUSEUM agent, seeking ruins of ancient Maya days, found ruins not expected—ruined Mayans dead drunk, substituting "whoopee" parties for ancient religious festivals.

The ancient Mayan religion dating back to the beginning of Christianity forbade drinking by young men. Only the old were permitted to get drunk, on important religious occasions, as a sort of sacrifice to the gods.

THE Mayans have adopted Christianity, but without much benefit, at least to their bodies. They celebrate Christmas with a four-day debauch, men and women falling in drunken stupor on the dancing floor.

Mayan women are compelled to dance at these festivals with their bare feet. The men wear moccasins. The idea is to demonstrate man's superiority. He demonstrates it also by getting drunker than the women.

MEN seek earthly immortality, or remembrance, in queer ways.

A slave burned the great Temple of Diana, that his name might be remembered.

A philosopher jumped into the crater of an active volcano.

The Rev. Dr. John Gwyon, British rector, hangs himself and leaves his fortune, $50,000, to buy knickerbockers for boys.

EACH boy must have sewn into the seam of the knickerbockers the words "Gwyon's Present," in large letters. So-called sports knickers are not to be bought, and "black boys" may not share in the distribution. Explain that idea if you can.

PROHIBITION'S problem becomes a more and more tangled web.

If you try to enforce the law and shoot a woman, as in Illinois, you arouse indignation.

If you make laws very severe, you frighten enforcement officials, and do not frighten the criminals.

ENFORCEMENT officers say the Jones law, $10,000 fine, five years in jail, will make bootleggers shoot to kill when any arrest is attempted. "Boss bootleggers," say the enforcement agents, "will hire a worse, more desperate class of men for delivering and running in goods. Those men will shoot us at sight, rather than risk five years in jail."

THE Chesterfieldian bootlegger will give way to a rough killing type, and instead of dry agents killing Illinois ladies, you will have bootleg thugs killing agents.

A GROUP of Americans headed by Irenee du Pont plans a great winter resort in Cuba, on twenty-two miles of beach front,

DERWOOD HEINEY

Washington (Pa.) police today held Loughman, charged with shooting Heiney when he came upon him and John Jones, 15, walking with Gertrude, of whom detectives say he was madly jealous. All was the outcome of a grade school triangle romance.

GIRL TELLS OF BOY'S SLAYING

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 1.—The romance of a schoolboy and a schoolgirl was at an end today—ended by a killing that was laid to jealousy.

Derwood Heiney, 15, was dead; Gertrude Baer, 14, was in tears; William Loughman, 22, was in the county jail, held for murder.

The sight of Gertrude strolling along the street on the arm of another so angered Loughman that he whipped a revolver from his pocket and fired a fatal bullet at Heiney, county detectives said.

GIRL TELLS HER STORY

Today Gertrude tried to hold back the tears as she told county detectives of her last walk with Derwood.

They had known each other for years. Derwood was in the eighth grade at the Eighth Ward School. Gertrude was a few grades lower. Often, classes over, their paths took them the same way.

FORBIDDEN TO SEE "BILL"

"Before I left home Saturday night," Gertrude tells, "Mamma told me not to go with Bill Loughman. When I left the house I saw him across the street waiting, so I started out the street to get away. Derwood and Oscar Jones were sitting on the stone wall on Chestnut street and I hurried over to them.

"I told them that Bill was following me and they said, 'We'll duck him.' So the three of us walked along until we reached Canton and Fayette streets.

"Bill caught up to us, then, on the other side of the street, and yelled something. I told him I didn't want to see him and to go away. He made some insulting remark to Derwood. Derwood answered him.

BOY CHALLENGED

"Bill told Derwood to take off his coat and come out in the middle of the street. Derwood pulled off his coat and started across. He got half-way and Bill took a gun from his pocket and fired right at Derwood. Derwood fell, then he got up and staggered back to us. Bill ran away."

In the presence of his father, Derwood died two hours later in Washington Hospital. The bullet entered his body a few inches below the heart and lodged in the back. It was a bullet from a .25 automatic.

Derwood made a dying statement in which he said Loughman had shot him, county detectives reported.

Loughman, detectives said, has admitted the shooting.

Derwood was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace W. Heiney, of 438 Ewing street. Gertrude lived with her mother, Mrs. Raymond Baer.

CONGRESS 'DRY' SURRENDERS

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP.)—Congressman M. A. Michaelson, of Chicago, indicted at Jacksonville, Fla., on charges of violating the national prohibition law, surrendered today to Henry C. W. Laubenheimer, United States marshal.

Congressman Michaelson's appearance at the marshal's office in the Federal Building was surrounded with secrecy and he was ushered immediately into the office of Edwin K. Walker, United States commissioner, to make bonds.

POSTS $2,000 BOND

Congressman Michaelson appeared voluntarily at the Federal Building, apparently without any advance notice of his intention.

Before the commissioner he waived a preliminary hearing, posted $2,000 for his appearance and announced he would go voluntarily to Florida to face the charges against him.

DENIES CHARGES

He denied emphatically the charges contained in the indictment, particularly that he had smuggled liquor into Florida from Cuba in a trunk marked "expedite" to hurry it

April One, Police Run; Wind's Act Only Fun

The wind won an April fool's victory over the Pittsburgh Police Department today.

At 7 a. m. the burglar alarm in S. H. Adler's drugstore at 2136 Murray avenue clanged frantically. Police from Squirrel Hill and Oakland, sleuths from Central Police Station rushed to the scene with sleep in their eyes.

They found that the strong early morning wind had shattered a rear window to which was attached the burglar alarm.

WIND HURTS 4; PERILS MANY

Resembling in some of its effects a western tornado, a gale struck Pittsburgh today with resultant injury to at least four persons and widespread property damage.

Three women and a man were cut by flying glass when the wind broke a large display window in the Republic Furniture Company's store at Sandusky and Ohio streets, North Side.

Those requiring medical attention were:

Mrs. Sarah Smersky, of R. D. No. 11, Millvale.

Miss M. Hopp, 38, of 1231 Voskamp street.

J. M. McGervin, of 334 Grace street, Mt. Washington.

Mrs. Ella Heifler, of 141 Oak Park road.

The framework of a dwelling under construction at 2098 Delmont avenue, Brookline, was blown from its foundation. Several workmen narrowly escaped injury.

ROOF RIPPED OFF

Part of the tin roof on a two-story building owned and occupied by Dr. L. F. Ankrim, 5010 Penn avenue, was ripped off by the wind and fell on the tops of two automobiles parked at the curb in front of the

A. J. ROTH RAISED FROM WRECKED AUTO BEFORE EASTER CHURCH THRONG

A remarkable action picture taken as chauffeurs lifted A. J. Roth, 6357 Glenview place, from his car, which upset in Ellsworth avenue in front of the Episcopal Church of the Ascension as the Easter throng was leaving the church. Mr. Roth was dazed, but not otherwise injured, police said in reporting that his car had sideswiped that of Ethel T. Cordes, 211 Lyton avenue, as the Cordes car was being moved out of its parking place after services.

Coolidge Tells How He Took Up Burden Of the Presidency

HEREWITH is presented the second installment of Part One of Mr. Coolidge's Own Story, which appeared in April Cosmopolitan. In the first installment, printed in this newspaper yesterday, the former President described his early political career, his selection for the Vice Presidency, the death of President Harding and how the oath of office was administered to him by his father by lamplight in the sitting room of his little Vermont home.

By CALVIN COOLIDGE,
Former President of the United States.

WHEN I started for Washington that morning I turned aside from the main road to make a short devotional visit to the grave of my mother. It had been a comfort to me during my boyhood, when I was troubled, to be near her last resting place, even in the dead of night. Some way, that morning she seemed very near to me.

A telegram was sent to my pastor, Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, to meet me on my arrival at Washington that evening, which he did.

I found the Cabinet mostly scattered. Some members had been with the late President and some were in Europe. The Secretary of State, Mr. Hughes, and myself at once began the preparations of plans for the funeral.

I issued the usual proclamation.

The Washington services were held in the rotunda of the Capitol, followed by a simple service and interment at Marion, O., which I attended with the Cabinet and a large number of officers of the government.

I found the Cabinet and myself was an especial consolation to us.

The first Sunday after reaching Washington we attended services, as we were accustomed to do, at the First Congregational Church. Although I had been rather constant in my attendance, I had never joined the church.

While there had been religious services, there was no organized church society near my boyhood home.

Among other things, I had some fear as to my ability to set that example which I always felt ought to denote the life of a church member. I am inclined to think now

5 HURT IN EXPLOSION AT J. & L.

With a blast felt throughout the Oakland district, a cinder buggy loaded with hot slag exploded in the South Side plant of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation shortly before noon today. Four men were slightly burned, another was knocked unconscious.

All were able to return to work except one.

WIND BLAMED

The cinder buggy, one of a train of dump cars loaded with semi-molten residue from the open hearth steel furnaces, was being drawn by a "donkey" engine to the slag dock along the river bank.

Water probably blown into the buggy by the wind is believed to have caused the blast.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Those burned were Alex Wockhurt, Mike Switcher, Jete Bujmic and Steve Gollot. They were treated at the company hospital and returned to work.

Prokop Kuthn was knocked unconscious and was removed to his home suffering from shock.

The force of the blast was noted throughout the Oakland district and was reported to have rattled windows in the Schenley apartments, several miles away.

M'GOVERN WARS ON AUDIT

"The independent audit of Allegheny County's fiscal affairs for 1927 was no audit at all," declared County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern today in a petition presented in Common Pleas Court today asking that Controller Robert G. Woodside's annual report for 1927 be stricken from the court record.

The audit covered part of McGovern's administration as controller.

Judge Josiah Cohen granted the rule to show cause why the report should not be stricken from the record. The petition was presented by Attorneys J. H. W. Simpson and Ralph H. Frank, counsel for McGovern. Woodside has 30 days in which to file his answer.

"Woodside's supplemental report to this smoke screen, which has been styled the 'independent audit of the county books,' is nothing more than an attempt by him to usurp the powers of the courts," McGovern said in his petition. "He attempts to review

The effort is to be made at Detroit during an aviation show there April 6 to 14. Miss La Rene said she would carry sufficient fuel for a 30 hour flight. She will fly to Detroit the last of this week.

Although a young pilot with comparatively little experience the flier hopes to better the present record of 22 hours and 4 minutes held by Miss Louise McPhetridge of San Francisco.

EASTER AUTO TOLL 1 DEAD, 15 HURT

With highways jammed as a sult of the inviting Easter shine, automobile mishaps sterday took a toll of one ead and 15 injured.

An unidentified man, about 35, was fatally injured shortly before last midnight at Penn avenue and Sixteenth street by a car which ter crashed against an iron pole. He died today in West Penn Hospital.

Anton Stankiewicz, 23, of 133 orty-fifth street, driver of the ar, and two occupants, John Maenski, 19, of 522 Pine street, Amridge, Pa., and John Probul, of 181½ Forty-fifth street, were injured. Marenski is in West Penn Hospital with a probable skull fracture. The driver was arrested and released under $1,000 bail by the coroner pending an inquest.

Three persons were injured when an automobile driven, police said, by William McNaulty, 20, of 22 Brownell street, struck a Shady avenue street car at Forbes street and Morewood avenue. McNaulty suffered a fractured skull. He is in the West Penn Hospital, and a charge of reckless driving has been placed against him.

ORTH SIDE MAN HURT

George E. Butler, 60, of 822 East Diamond street, North Side, was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital suffering from lacerations and probably from a skull fracture, physicians said, after he was struck at Sherman avenue and Erie street by an auto driven, police said, by H. E. Godden, 28, of 3231 Latonia street. Godden was arrested, charged with reckless driving.

When a motorcycle and an automobile collided at Hilson avenue and Brownsville road, Brentwood, last night, three men were injured. William Jones, 26, of 3706 Brownsville road, driver of the auto, suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries. Theodore Bruce, 21, of Brentwood, driver of the motorcycle, suffered a skull fracture, and George Vinsed, 16, of Brentwood, a passenger in the auto, suffered lacerations.

CAR HITS POLE

James Pamplin, 22, of 1209 Decatur street, riding in a machine which, police said, he had stolen, crashed into a pole in the Boulevard of the Allies at Juliet street, and suffered bruises and lacerations. He was treated at Magee Hospital, and in Oakland Police Court was held for court by Magistrate George England on a theft charge. S. Kroch, of 3703 Carnegie street, identified the wrecked car as his.

Bergillio Danessi, 46, of 54 Marion street, was cut and bruised when he stepped in front of a machine driven by Leonard Fortunato, 22, of 1305 Methyl avenue, in Broadway. Beechview. Fortunato was arrested and charged with reckless driving.

Mary Holoticka was injured slightly when she stepped in front of the automobile of Gus Adams, of 1419 Hamlin street, in Carson street, police reported.

When he was struck by an auto driven, police said, by A. J. Schraum, of 341 Hastings street, Joseph Kuczma, 9, of 125 South Nineteenth street, suffered bruises and lacerations. The accident occurred near the boy's home.

seventy miles from Havana, developed in accordance with American ideas of happiness and relaxation.

IT IS not easy to realize it, but within a few years that Cuban resort will be as accessible from New York, Washington, Philadelphia, as Atlantic City, N. J., is now.

And Mr. du Pont will be saying, "We must go where it is less crowded."

WINSTON CHURCHILL, chancellor of the exchequer, starts his financial year with a surplus of $100,000,000, is praised and deserves it. John Bull's surplus is almost as great as Uncle Sam's.

CHURCHILL, by the way, is the grandson of old Leonard Jerome, Wall Street broker and partner of William R. Travers in the old days.

Jerome built a fine house with a private theater in it, now the Manhattan Club in Madison Square, New York. He did Britain and the declining Marlborough strain a favor when he married his intelligent daughter to Lord Randolph Churchill, son of the Duke of Marlborough.

DR. O'SHEA, superintendent of public schools in New York, will diminish home work for all pupils and eliminate it entirely for very young children. A wise decision. Six hours in school is more than enough for any child.

NOT one adult brain in 100 is capable of real mental concentration for six hours, or three hours. The burden of home work simply causes evasion or wearies and dulls the child's mind. There should be none of it, for children of any age.

CHILDREN under 14 should have at most three hours of school in the morning, none in the afternoon. Unfortunately public schools are planned, largely, to "take children off their mother's hands for as many hours as possible." Convenient for the home, bad for the child, unless the alternative be too many school hours, or idle streets for a playground, as it often is.

AUDIT BEING FOUGHT

my acts in office and to exercise complete jurisdiction over them. This is a power that only the courts have."

EXAMINE RECORDS

The 60-day period in which exceptions to the controller's report can be taken expires today.

"All that Ernst & Ernst, the firm which made the audit, have done, according to a letter from them to Woodside, which he has filed as part of his report," McGovern said, "has been to make an examination of the county records."

"They have prepared a 'statement of assets and liabilities of the county of Allegheny at the close of business December 31, 1927,' but it doesn't mean anything insofar as showing the condition of the county financially, and it has cost the county $75,000," McGovern asserted.

In this supplemental report Woodside wiped out the $128,610.56 surcharged made by McGovern against County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock and James Houlehan as "unwarranted, improper and illegal, entered only against the commissioners and which should have included the county treasurer and controller. No loss sustained by the county. He also eliminates a $10,737 surcharge for private work doneby county employes as "if done, it was without knowledge or consent of the commissioners."

CHARGES BUCK PASSING

Quoting from the Ernst & Ernst letter, McGovern said:

"This is a case of the auditors not making an audit, but having the buck passed to them and passing it right back to the Controller, and here is how they do it.

"Their letter states, 'Due to the magnitude of the work that would be necessary, the incompleteness of the records, the lack of internal control and the limitations put on us, due to the limited amount of appropriation, it was impossible for us to verify in detail the financial transactions of all the various offices and departments of the county for 1927.

"The scope of our work was, in consequence of the facts stated, limited by you to test examinations of the books and records of the county, pertaining to operation of the Department of Public Works, county treasurer, delinquent tax collector, department for the maintenance of juveniles, clerk of courts, coroner, district attorney, prothonotary and clerk of county court, register of wills and clerk of orphans court, recorder of deeds and sheriff's office.

ONLY "BORING TEST"

By this letter McGovern claims that Ernst & Ernst themselves have admitted that their audit is "nothing more than a test boring process into the county's financial affairs, with not as good results as the test borings Director Brown of the Department of Public Works, makes."

The motion to strike off the report is a four-page document. It sets forth that Woodside's report "does not purport to be a report of all receipts and expenditures of Allegheny County for 1927; is admittedly incomplete; vague and indeterminate and not in compliance with the laws of Pennsylvania relative to the rights, duties and obligations of the controller of Allegheny County.

building. The machines, unoccupied, and owned by L. J. Klein, 108 Parkview avenue, Carrick, and J. A. McCullough, 5014 Penn avenue, were damaged.

A large plate glass window in the furniture store of Samuel Golden, 6325 Station street, loosened by the gale, crashed to pieces on the sidewalk. An unidentified girl was reported cut by flying glass.

Police roped off the sidewalk at Penn avenue and Beatty street until they could remove an electric sign torn loose by the wind and dangling in front of a vacant storeroom.

SIGNS BLOWN DOWN

A large ornamental brass ball at the top of the five-story Hiland Hotel, Penn avenue and St. Clair street, was removed when it became loosened, to prevent it falling to the sidewalk. A sign on the roof was toppled.

While wreaking damage in other sections of the city the high wind probably saved buildings of the Pittsburgh Country Club, in Beechwood boulevard, from fire. A brush fire which started near the club, fanned by the wind, spread quickly, driving the flames from the outbuildings. The fire was extinguished by firemen from the Northumberland avenue engine house.

SIGNBOARDS HURLED

Signboards in various parts of the city and suburbs were torn loose by the wind and sent hurtling through the air, to the peril of passersby. Ash cans, boxes and other objects were hurled hither and thither by the force of the gale.

The air was littered with flying paper and dust, and in the downtown streets pedestrians were frequently called upon to give chase to their hats.

Mrs. Smersky was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. The others were attended by physicians with offices near the scene of the accident.

The injuries in every case consisted of minor lacerations.

WORKERS IMPERILED

The building damaged in Brookline was being constructed by Samuel McRoberts, contractor, of Carrick. As the heavy framework gave way before the wind, workmen fled for their lives, fearing the structure would completely collapse and that they would be crushed by the timbers.

The force of the wind was estimated at 35 mies an hour.

The gale heralds a 32-degree drop in temperature tonight the Weather Bureau announced. But with the coming of colder weather, it was added, the force of the wind will abate.

The mercury will fall between 30 and 35 degrees by tomorrow morning. Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotzman predicted. The temperature at 8 a. m. was 67 degrees. It was said the skies would be clear.

Girl, 18, Serves as Bartender; Fined

Miss Stella Nelbrzydowski, 18, arrested while tending bar in a saloon at 2711 Jane street, was fined $25 by Magistrate Jones in Morals Court yesterday.

Lieut. James B. Earley and squad from the South Side police station, made the raid, and confiscated a small quantity of moonshine liquor.

Police said that when they entered the place, the girl, standing in back of the counter, wearing a fur coat, started to empty liquor into a sink in back of the bar. They confiscated a small quantity of liquor. The girl was charged with keeping a disorderly house. oPlice are looking for the owner of the establishment.

Children Give Easter Eggs To John D.

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., April 1.—(AP.)—The Easter rabbit did not forget John D. Rockefeller yesterday.

Just as he left the little white church at which he attended divine services, a flower-entwined basket filled with gaily colored eggs was presented to him by two young children, who each received a shiny dime in return.

It was Mr. Rockefeller's last Sunday here this year, and a large crowd gathered to bid him goodbye.

KIDNAPED GIRL IN HOSPITAL

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—(AP.)—Alice Labutis, 12, who arrived home yesterday from Charlotte, N. C., where she was found last Friday with her abductor, Curtis S. Devonshire, 30, today was in Jefferson Hospital for an examination of her throat. The girl has been a patient at the hospital since she swallowed lye at the age of six.

Meanwhile her abductor passed a restless night in his cell at City Hall, where he was taken yesterday. He is to be given a hearing Thursday before a magistrate, and probably will be held for abduction or kidnaping.

Devonshire took the girl into his automobile from in front of her home last Wednesday afternoon on the pretext of asking her to show him the residence of a former neighbor. He reiterated today that he was drunk and did not know what he was doing when he took the girl on the long motor trip. He did not harm the girl.

British Rulers Take Easter Communion

BOGNOR, Sussex, Eng., April 1.—(AP.)—The archbishop of Canterbury administered holy communion to King George and Queen Mary at noon yesterday in the King's room at Craigneil House. This is the first time in 11 years the King and Queen have not taken Easter communion in the royal chapel at Windsor Castle.

His Majesty was astir early, spending most of the morning walking about the gardens in brilliant sunshine.

IRENE M'LAUGHLIN WITH CHECK

When the Rev. M. J. Ryan, pastor, St. Richard's Church, presented Irene, 16, this check, he gave her $162.06 voluntarily sent by Pittsburghers to the Sun-Telegraph to help the widow and 10 children of William J. McLaughlin, 5 Marohn street, burned to death when a gasoline truck upset downtown.

PETITIONS SPUR HOPE OF CUT IN WAGE TAX

Within two weeks, members of Congress, returning to Washington for the special session, will witness in concrete form the results of the nation-wide movement for the downward revision of Federal taxes on earned incomes.

Petitions, bearing hundreds of thousands of signatures transmitted through the Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers will begin to reach the capital. In the volume of petitions and the number of indorsements by various groups and organizations, the campaign for the reduction of the income tax burden on wage earners is declared to have no parallel in the history of the country.

CONGRESSMEN FRIENDLY

Petitions now in circulation will be called in and forwarded promptly to Washingon. Thousands of organizations' indorsements already have been sent to individual congressmen and members of various committees of the House of Representatives. A poll of Western Pennsylvania congressmen shows that the petitions from this district will be in friendly hands since every local representative who has had an opportunity to give an expression on the income tax question has unqualifiedly supported the proposal for a revision downward.

Officers of the Washington (Pa.) Chamber of Commerce with other business men of that section heartily indorsed the revision downward of the taxes on earned incomes. H. R. Campbell, secretary said:

PENALTY ATTACKED

"Taxation should be so adjusted that it will bear as lightly as possible upon the earning capacity of the taxable. His ability to build up an income by his own exertions should not be penalized by the government. Left free to feel that his personal energies will all result to his own benefit, he will increase his efforts and ultimately build up an estate that will be larger and yield greater returns in taxes.

"Earned incomes should be encouraged in every way possible because they are the foundations of future properties easily able to pay for the benefits they derive from the government.

PROTECTION URGED

Following is the statement by H. W. Hughes, president of the Washington Chamber:

"Earned incomes should not be subject to taxation, as any deduction from them operates to reduce the earning capacity of the taxable. If he is encouraged to increase his earnings, he more rapidly builds up a surplus that is a proper subject for taxation. The law was all right in wartime when every effort was turned toward winning the conflict, but now that family life must be made paramount once more, it is essential that the full earning capacity of the people should be protected and encouraged."

American Woman Driven from Mexico

DOUGLAS, Ariz., April 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Alice Gatliff, owner of the curio cafe in Agua Prieta, Sonora, personal friend of Gen. P. Elias Calles, and the late Gen. Alvaro Obregon, left the Mexican town late Saturday under rebel orders. Rebel officials charged, it was said, that she had been "communicating with the enemy." Her cafe had been the scene of many important political conferences, the governors of Sonora and Arizona having met there in recent months.

WORLD MOURNS HERRICK, SEEK HIS SUCCESSOR

American pro-Cathedral on Thursday for services.

Parmely Herrick, the Ambassador's son, is on his way to France from Cleveland, O.,

The time of the Tourville5s departure has not yet been fixed.

The body of Mr. Herrick rested today in a flower banked room in the United States Embassy, adjoining the apartment where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh greeted the admiring crowds after his epic flight from New York.

The same vast and reverent crowds that visited Marshal Foch's home to view the remains of that famous soldier slightly more than a week ago gathered outside the American Embassy to pay similar tribute to the memory of the beloved diplomat.

WON FRENCH PLAUDITS

The ambassador, who won the hearts of France and the other allies in 1914 by braving the German advance and remaining in Paris, although the French government moved to Bordeaux, died with a smile upon his lips, at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after an acute heart attack.

The ambassador's heart collapse resulted from a bronchial cold. His resistance to the cold had been weakened by a fatigue resulting from his part in Marshal Foch's funeral last Tuesday. Despite his 74 years, he had walked bareheaded in the funeral cortege from Cathedral Notre Dame to Les Invalides and had remained in the damp air throughout the ceremonies for three hours.

DAUGHTER THERE

At his bedside when the end came were his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Parmely Herrick, his social secretary, Mme. Salambier, and Blanchard, the faithful valet, who had saved his life in October, 1922, when a bomb exploded in the embassy.

Two specialists in attendance also were present. Mrs. Herrick immediately notified her husband, the ambassador's son, who was in Cleveland, by trans-Atlantic telephone.

To the end, Ambassador Herrick retained consciousness and appeared not to realize the seriousness of his condition.

Shortly after noon yesterday he was seized with a short, violent attack similar to the one which almost caused his death at Chagrin Falls, O., last January. Specialists were called. Although they said he had but a fighting chance to live, he fought the attack with characteristic bravery and soon was smilingly conversing with his daughter-in-law.

SINKS SUDDENLY

Shortly after 4 o'clock, while talking of arrangements for receiving Elihu Root, who was scheduled to arrive here today, the ambassador suddenly sank backward and died.

Premier Poincare and President Doumergue immediately dispatched personal representatives to the American embassy with the sympathy of the French government when informed of the Ambassador's death.

Among the first to call at the American embassy were Jules Jusserand, former French ambassador to Washington, and his wife. Gen. Pershing came shortly after. A warm personal friend of the late Ambassador, the General appeared to be greatly moved.

Herrick's talent for fostering international friendliness showed at its best when in 1927 he guided Col. Charles A. Lindbergh through the pitfalls of sudden worldwide fame by his hospitality and advice.

CONSIDER SUCCESSOR

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP.)—The death of Ambassador Myron T. Herrick at Paris has forced upon President Hoover and Secretary Stimson a number of problems, in the selection of a successor.

Neither President Hoover nor Secretary Stimson, who was in New York when the news of Mr. Herrick's death shocked official Washington late yesterday, has had time to give the serious thought necessary to the selection of a successor.

Former Vice President Charles G. Dawes, most prominently mentioned for the highly-prized London post, may now be asked to go to Paris instead. His war and post-war activities in the field of international economic affairs, it is recalled, have been more definitely identified with Paris than with London.

At the same time, consideration of Dawes in connection with the London assignment, has led to the suggestion that former Secretary Frank B. Kellogg might be asked to go to Paris. He now is en route to the French capital on a vacation he began with Mrs. Kellogg after his release from the State Department last week by Secretary Stimson.

Others suggested for the Paris post are Ambassador Hugh Gibson at Berne, Switzerland, and Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher at Rome.

Loss of Friend, Host in Paris, Grieves Lindy

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the man Ambassador Myron T. Herrick guided through a series of ovations and receptions in Paris at the end of his trans-Atlantic flight in 1927, last night wired the Associated Press from Santa Barbara, Cal., this tribute to the late Ambassador:

"I am deeply grieved at the loss of Ambassador Herrick, who has always been more than a friend to me. I do not believe that an individual ever commanded greater love and respect from the people of two continents."

WIRES DOWN, MILWAUKEE ISOLATED

CHICAGO, April 1.—(INS.)—Thousands of dollars' worth of property damage was done in the Midwest today by terrific wind and rainstorms.

Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin were severely struck.

Milwaukee is entirely isolated, due to a total collapse of all wire of communication.

In some localities a drop of from 30 to 35 degrees accompanied the storms.

At Indianapolis the gale reached a velocity of nearly 60 miles an hour. Plate glass windows were shattered in many parts of the city.

Rain deluged the middlewest last night and today snow fell in many parts of the country.

TRAINS DELAYED

Trains were held up by flooded tracks and surface car traffic in many cities and particularly Chicago was at a standstill from impassable streets. Many highways were reported flooded.

Weather forecasters said the cold wave and rain would be replaced tomorrow by rising temperature and fair weather.

TORNADO HURTS SCORE

POPLAR BLUFFS, Mo., April 1.—(INS.)—A score of persons, victims of a tornado, are in hospitals today as the result of a tornado which struck in this vicinity late yesterday.

No deaths were reported today but it was said that some of the seven or eight seriously injured are expected to die. Farm buildings and homes in the path of the tornado were demolished.

THREE PLANES WRECKED

DETROIT, April 1.—(INS.)—Whipping the state with a velocity of 60 miles an hour, a terrific gale wrecked three planes and hangars at an airport here and disrupted telephone communications in scattered sections of lower Michigan.

Damage estimated at $10,000 was done by the strong wind at the Mathewson Airways Airport, where three planes and hangars were wrecked.

Large breaks in telephone and telegraph lines north of Bay City and around Grand Rapids have been reported.

through the customs office without examination.

He said he would be able to disprove the charges.

As soon as bonds were made he left the Federal Building with two federal officers assigned to him to prevent reporters from questioning him or photographers from taking pictures.

A warrant for the congressman's arrest had been issued last week after his indictment by a federal grand jury several months previously had become public.

IMMUNE DURING SESSION

A deputy mashal went to the congressman's home Saturday but could find no one there and it had been reported that Michaelson was en route to Jacksonville to surrender.

Publication of the several-months-old indictment had brought to light the fact that his arrest had been held in abeyance until Congress adjourned because he was immune from arrest while it was in session.

George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney at Chicago, said there had been no delay in his office since Congress had adjourned, except that the case against the congressman was behind many others and was given no precedence in handling.

DE KING "BUY" ILLEGAL

AURORA, Ill., April 1.—(AP.)—The man who made the "buy" in the DeKing liquor raid case has been found. He is Philip Johnson and he has told attorneys that he did not purchase liquor from Mrs. Lillian DeKing.

The shooting to death of Mrs. DeKing a week ago by a deputy sheriff took place at the DeKing home during a raid made under a search warrant. The warrant, in turn, was predicated on a "buy" of liquor which Eugene Boyd Fairchild, acting as a county investigator, declared he had made from a woman at the DeKing home.

WARRANT CHARGE FALSE

Fairchild told authorities that the complaint on which the warrant was obtained was inaccurate in declaring he personally had made the purchase. He said Johnson, son of a gas station owner at Batavia, Ill., had been the actual buyer of the liquor, using money which Fairchild furnished.

Johnson, who volunteered his story to attorneys representing Joseph DeKing, said he did not buy the liquor at the DeKing house, or from a woman, as the Fairchild complaint declared. The "buy" was made, Johnson said, "from a man in front of Stafford's filling station, which is near the DeKing home."

CARBARY TO QUIT CASE

GENEVA Ill., April 1.—(INC.)—State's Attorney George Carbary, of Kane county, today went before Judge John K. Newhall in the Circuit Court here and asked to be relieved of all responsibility in conducting the investigation into the killing of Mrs. Lillian De King by dry raiders in her home a week ago.

In presenting his petition Carbary stated "there were many angles of the case making appointment of another prosecutor imperative."

HAPPY EASTER OBSERVED BY CITY

A happy city yesterday observed a happy feast day, thousands, in church, on the streets, in the homes, presented a panorama of pageantry wherein style, flowers and colored eggs symbolized the spirit of merry-making.

Churches celebrating the Feast of the Resurrection, attracted their throngs of the religious, maids and men bowed to the traditions of the day in their promenade of style, while the children greeted the legendary arrival of the egg-bearing bunny.

Phipps conservatories in Schenley Park and West Park were brilliant with their exhibitions of Easter flowers. Granted a smiling day, morning and afternoon, great processions of people edged through the displays of lilies, hydrangeas, roses and cinnerarias.

Churches were rich with the radiance of the flowers and special musical programs added to the services.

Pittsburgh's aristocracy had its annual saunter along Fifth avenue early in the afternoon, and the church doors emitted great throngs of smartly attired people. While the women contributed little in color, the stylish black coats that predominate in the styles covered many a gay gown. Silk hats, for more than a century the last word in male elegance, bowed appreciably to the round black derby, men of Blue Book note with few exceptions presenting this comparatively new form of headdress.

And as well, it proclaimed that Lent was at an end.

$5,000 FORNEY REWARD ISSUE

Whether Allegheny County will offer a reward for information leading to the appearance here for trial of Alfred W. Forney, alleged slot machine magnate, may be decided tomorrow at a meeting of the county commissioners.

The request of Judge James B. Drew that the commissioners offer $5,000 for information that would bring Forney back to face 16 gambling charges will be considered at the meeting. One commissioner, Charles McGovern, is for it. Friends of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong were certain he would be against such an action. Commissioner E. V. Babcock had refused to express his attitude, and Judge Drew is out of the city.

In Criminal Court, 95 indictments returned by the same graft-investigating grand jury that indicted Forney were scheduled to come to trial this week. Thirty of these were lottery and gambling cases, and 65 illegal liquor cases. Pleas were expected in most of them.

Delay Bishop Brent's Burial at Lausanne

LAUSANNE, Switzerland, April 1.—(INS.)—Owing to delays entailed by legal formalities, the funeral of the late Bishop Charles H. Brent, of the Episcopal diocese of Buffalo, N. Y., probably will be postponed until Thursday or Friday. Bishop Brent will be buried in the Lausanne Cemetery, but some delay was occasioned in overcoming the law limiting leases on burial space to 50 years.

FREIGHT LOST TO WILMERDING

Wilmerding was given a blow when the Pennsylvania Railroad Company announced a new policy in the handling of shipments from that borough. The new move, already in force, has taken the greater part of the freight business from the Wilmerding office to East Pittsburgh and has reduced the force at the former office by three men, a clerk and two baggage men.

Business men of the community are now raising the question as to whether the new plan will keep up the accustomed efficiency of the office.

PINCHOT OFF ON SOUTH SEA QUEST PLANNED 40 YEARS

NEW YORK, April 1.—(INS.)—Off at last, after a three-day delay for repairs, the Barkentine Mary Pinchot, on which former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, plans to make an eight-month fishing cruise through the South Seas, was standing out to sea today, en route to the Panama Canal Zone.

At the canal the Pinchot party will pick up former Federal Judge George W. Woodin, with whom Pennsylvania's former executive planned the trip 40 years ago.

The crash of the small brass signal cannon on the deck of the Mary Pinchot marked the start of the craft southward. It was within a few minutes of the time Gifford Pinchot, Jr., was to have fired the gun to signalize the start last Thursday when defects were discovered in the refrigeration and telegraph systems.

Those aboard the yacht, in addition to ex-Governor and Mrs. Pinchot and their son, are Stanley Stahlnecker, young Pinchot's chum; Harry A. Slattery, a Washington attorney, who is going as far as the canal zone with the party; Morris E. Gregg, Mrs. Pinchot's secretary; Dr. Thomas O. Otto, of Baltimore, ship's doctor; Dr. H. A. Pilsbury, of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences; Dr. A. K. Fisher, naturalist, and his son, Dr. W. K. Fisher, of Leland Stanford University, and Howard Cleaves, lecturer and motion picture expert.

PRESIDENT, "FIRST LADY," WELCOME EGG-ROLLERS

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP.)—President and Mrs. Hoover personally welcomed a host of children and grownups to the White House grounds today for the annual Easter Monday egg-rolling.

An ever present threat of rain served to make the attendance smaller than it has been in years past, but failed to diminish the ardor of the youthful White House guests. They roamed about the lawn rolling their eggs down the slopes of the grounds and their shouts carried to the President's private office in the executive wing.

After greeting children of Cabinet members and other government officials inside the White House, Mrs. Hoover appeared upon the south portico, where she smiled and waved a greeting to the crowd and stood looking on for several minutes. She was accompanied by Mrs. Edward Gann, the sister of Vice President Curtis.

Police Free Children Locked in Cupboard

Barbara Ackerman and Jack Reichbaum, each 4, celebrated Easter by getting themselves locked in a cupboard when Barbara went to visit Jack yesterday, in his home at 5398 Stanton avenue. After 30 minutes, the elder Reichbaums and the Ackermans, who live at 4109 Murray avenue, gave it up and police came and opened the cupboard door.

FEDERAL-REBEL FIGHT RAGES AT JIMINEZ

MEXICO CITY, April 1.—(AP.)—Heavy fighting between Federal and rebel forces in the region of Jimenez, which had been under way since sunrise today, was reported to the presidential palace at noon.

A resumption of the rebel aerial bombardment of Naco began shortly before 10 o'clock this morning. Two rebel airplanes appeared over the Federal trenches and began dropping bombs.

A dispatch reports that Henry Humphrey, supposedly an American, was wounded at Cuernavaca, Morelos, when insurgents or bandits fired upon automobile parties from Mexico City that had gone to Cuernavaca for the day.

Another dispatch claims that the rebels on the west coast have retired to La Cruz, north of Mazatlan. The same telegram reported the death of federal Capt. Manuel Robels, of the aviation service, who was killed while making an air raid over La Cruz.

REBELS CLAIM VICTORY

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, April 1.—(AP.)—Aided by 15 airplanes, Mexican rebels, actively led by their commander, Gen. Jose Gonzalo Escobar, today claimed to have won an initial victory in a 10-hour battle near Escalon Sunday, in which 400 federals were reported killed and 1,500 taken prisoner.

The rebels moved into the territory around Escalon Saturday night, it was reported at rebel headquarters here, and engaged the federal command about noon Sunday, fighting until nightfall. Today a rebel detachment was reported to be pursuing fleeing federal troops toward Torreon.

Leviathan Mail Looted Again On Voyage

LONDON, April 1.—(AP.)—The steamship Leviathan's mail has suffered from thieves again.

When the mail for the ship from London arrived at Southampton Saturday morning one of the registered mail bags was found to have been slit open and a package was taken. The exact description could not be obtained.

Bonds, jewelry and money estimated in some advices at $100,000 to $500,000, but said by the government to be not more than $12,000 were stolen from the mail of the Leviathan while it was at sea between New York and Southampton and Cherbourg last June.

BOOKKEEPER GONE, SENDS DAUGHTER SAVINGS BOOK

Relatives of John B. Moore, 54, bookkeeper for the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for 18 years, who is mysteriously missing from his home, 7004 Kedron street, have asked the co-operation of the Missing Persons Bureau and police of Indianapolis in efforts to find him.

Moore left home Saturday night, March 16, to pay his rent, gas and electric light bills. Five days later an envelope, postmarked Indianapolis, Ind., and addressed in his handwriting was received by his daughter. It contained his savings account card in the Westinghouse employes' savings fund and other identification cards. The card was filled out by him and assigned his savings account of $480 to his daughter.

When he left home, Moore was wearing a dark suit, gray overcoat and black hat. He is five feet three inches tall, weighs about 160 pounds, has gray hair and brown eyes. During the World War he was a sergeant in the Canadian army.

Coolidge Tells How He Took Up Burden Of the Presidency

that this was a counsel of darkness.

First Communion
"Church Voted Me Into Its Membership.

This first service happened to come on communion day. Our pastor, Dr. Pierce, occupied the pulpit, and, as he can under the practise of the Congregational Church, and always does, because of his own very tolerant attitude, he invited all those who believed in the Christian faith, whether church members or not, to join in partaking of the communion.

For the first time I accepted this invitation, which I later learned he had observed, and in a few days without any intimation to me that it was to be done, considering this to be a sufficient public profession of my faith, the church voted me into its membership.

This declaration of their belief in me was a great satisfaction.

Had I been approached in the usual way to join the church after I became President, I should have feared that such action might appear to be a pose and should have hesitated to accept. From what might have been a misguided conception I was thus saved by some influence which I had not anticipated.

But if I had not voluntarily gone to church and partaken of communion, this blessing would not have come to me.

Fate bestows its rewards on those who put themselves in the proper attitude to receive them.

U. S. Business
"Peace Made, Taxes Cut, Arms Slash Agreed."

During my service in Washington I had seen a large amount of government business. Peace had been made with the Central Powers, the tariff revised, the budget system adopted, taxation reduced, large payments made on the national debt, the Veterans' Bureau organized, important farm legislation passed, public expenditures greatly decreased, the differences with Colombia of 20 years' standing composed, and the Washington Conference had reached an epoch-making agreement for the practical limitation of naval armaments.

It would be difficult to find two years of peacetime history in all the record of our republic that were marked with more important and far-reaching accomplishments.

From my position as President of the Senate, and in my attendance upon the sessions of the Cabinet, I thus came into possession of a very wide knowledge of the details of the government.

In spite of the remarkable record which had already been made, much remained to be done. While anything that relates to the functions of the government is of enormous interest to me, its economic relations have always had a peculiar fascination for me.

Though these are necessarily predicated on order and peace, yet our people are so thoroughly law-abiding and our foreign relations are so happy that the problem of government action which is to carry its benefits into the homes of all the people becomes almost entirely confined to the realm of economics.

"Waste Wrong"
"Men Should Live According to Means."

My personal experience with business had been such as comes to a country lawyer.

My official experience with government business had been of a wide range. As mayor, I had charge of the financial affairs of the city of Northampton. As lieutenant governor, I was chairman of the committee on finance of the governor's council, which had to authorize every cent of expenditures of the commonwealth before they could be made. As governor, I was chargeable with responsibility both for appropriations and for expenditures.

My fundamental idea of both private and public business came first from my father. He had the strong New England trait of great repugnance at seeing anything wasted. He was a generous and charitable man, but he regarded waste as a moral wrong.

Wealth comes from industry and from hard experience of human toil. To dissipate it in waste and extravagance is disloyalty to humanity.

This is by no means a doctrine of parsimony. Both men and nations should live in accordance with their means and devote their substance not only to productive industry, but to the creation of the various forms of beauty and the pursuit of culture which give adornments to the art of life.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation to our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

CLUB HOLDUP NETS $35,000

ST. LOUIS, April 1.—(AP.)—The Business Men's Club, an alleged gambling house on fashionable Lindell boulevard, which has been raided six times since the first of the year, was invaded yesterday by five masked men, who lined up 50 "members" and robbed them of cash and jewelry amounting to about $35,000, the Globe-Democrat says.

No report was made to the police, according to the newspaper, which adds that "authoritative sources placed the loss as high as $40,000." Officers at the Newstead District Police Station, a few blocks away from the club, declared they were unaware a holdup had occurred.

"'Recreation,' as the officers of the club call it, was in full swing," the paper says, "when the first of the five men entered the place and fired a pistol shot, halting all activity in the 14-room residence."

Pilot Unhurt After Bettis Field Crash

When a wheel on a Ryan monoplane locked yesterday, Robert Trego, student pilot at Bettis Field, narrowly escaped injury in a takeoff. In view of many spectators, his plane rose a few feet, touched the earth again and turned over. One wing of the plane was smashed and the motor was wrecked, but when attendants lifted Trego from the cabin he was uninjured. The ship was owned by the Aircraft and Airways Corporation.

More Changes to Be Made in Charter

By W. I. GRUNDISH,
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 1.—Additional amendments are to be made in the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Charter, according to reports here today. The changes, it is said, are of a minor nature.

The Charter bill is on the third calendar in the Senate tonight. No decision has been reached whether the changes will be made from the floor when it comes up for action or whether it will be passed to the House for amendment.

A survey today reveals virtually no organized opposition to the Charter bill and the prevailing opinion here is that it will go through without much trouble in the amended form. At the same time it is likely that the Metropolitan District Commission, which prepared the Charter bill originally insert and saw it cut to pieces by Allegheny County politicians, will be continued.

Representative Joseph C. Marcus, who introduced a measure continuing the commission, said this morning that he hoped to have it reported from the Elections Committee of the House tonight or tomorrow.

VOTE MACHINES FAVORED

The Elections Committee is scheduled to meet tonight primarily for the purpose of considering the Harris voting machine bill, which passed the Senate without a dissenting vote last week. Marcus said that he hoped to have the bill reported immediately.

The committee seems to be the last obstacle faced by the measure. Twenty-one of the 37 members of the committee are from Allegheny and Philadelphia counties. The attitude of the organization leaders and of Marcus, chairman of the committee, indicates that willingly or unwillingly, the bill be reported favorably.

FAVOR GAS TAX BOOST

The question of boosting the gasoline tax from 3 to 4 cents will be considered by the House Ways and Means Committee at a meeting tonight. The committee has an opportunity to play an April fool joke that would really be appreciated by the voters of the state by refusing to obey the orders of the Republican party bosses and leaving the tax at 3 cents. Reports indicate that the members have heard the crack of the organization whip and will amend either the Talbot or Sterling bill to levy 4 cents per gallon for a year or 18 months. Unless an unforeseen independence of spirit is revealed, the 4-cent tax bill will be reported favorably.

That does not mean that the fight against the four-cent boost has ended. Tomorrow State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, will appear before the Senate raods committee in an effort to prove his contention that the highway program can be carried on without a boost in the gasoline levy. On the same day the same committee will hold a hearing on the administration motor code which increases operators' and vehicle licenses a total of $4,750,000 annually.

At the same time ripples of revolt among the members of the House have not lost their strength. The possibility of any real revolt against the dictates of the Mellon-Grundy-Fisher combination, is extremely remote, but it exists. Judging from the talk among the members of the House, all that is needed is an outstanding progressive leader to take the floor. Such leaders are not made overnight, and State Treasurer Lewis, regardless of what he might say outside, cannot get to the floor.

TWO POLICE BILLS UP

The administration Coal and Iron Police bill, amended to meet to a certain extent the wishes of labor and civic leaders, is on the calendar in both houses tonight. The Mansfield bill is on third reading while that presented by M. A. Musmanno is on second. Both are identical.

The proposed constitutional amendment of Representative Matthew A. Dunn, blind member from Allegheny County, that would permit legislative appropriations for pensions to the blind, is on the third reading calendar in the Senate. It already has passed the House, if approved tonight it must pass the 1931 Legislature before going to the people for a vote. It does not specify any amount.

The Baumer bill creating a new judgeship in Cambria County also is on third reading in the Senate. The Kitts bill absolving street railway companies from paying the cost of repaving between tracks is in the House committee, and Allegheny County members are making an effort to have it killed there. The Schrantz bill revising and codifying the laws governing counties is on third reading in the Senate. It is said to have the approval of the Allegheny County organization.

LANDING FIELD BOND ISSUE

A hearing on the McCrossin stream pollution bill will be held Tuesday before the Senate Committee on Public Supply and Light, Heat and Water. In the past very few bills have been referred to this committee, and this is said to be one of the first public hearings it ever has held. Senator Krauz, Philadelphia, is chairman. On the same day the House Corporations Committee will hold a hearing on the Boggs bill licensing detectives and guards. It does not affect coal and iron police. Wednesday the House Committee on Aeronautics will hold a hearing on the Howe resolution proposing $5,000,000 bond issue for the purpose of building landing fields in the mountains of Pennsylvania.

Sun, Stars Indicate Moon Atmosphereless

The absence of atmosphere on the moon is proved by the fact that at the time of an eclipse of the sun the moon's limb is perfectly dark and sharp, with no apparent distortion of the sun due to refraction. Similarly, when a star is occulted by the moon it disappears suddenly and not somewhat gradually as it would if its light were being more and more extinguished by an atmosphere. The are other indications which lead to the same conclusions.

CARDINAL DIES, ROME SADDENED

ROME, April 1.—(AP.)—The death yesterday of Cardinal Lucidi cast gloom over the Easter celebration of Rome, which otherwise, as far as the weather and general rejoicing over settlement of the Roman question were concerned, had promised to be of the happiest.

Pope Pius XI personally administered communion in the newly-redecorated Sistine Chapel to members of the diplomatic corps.

After high mass in St. Peter's, the relics of the centurion's lance, the true cross and the holy veil of St. Veronica were exposed for the veneration of the faithful. These included 5,000 French pilgrims and 1,000 Germans. A similar exposition of relics was held in other churches of the city.

The ceremonies at St. Peter's were conducted by the Archpriest of that basilica, Cardinal Merry Del Val, and in the afternoon the historic "procession of the three Marys" was made.

The royal family, including the Crown Princee, spent Easter at San Rossore, near Pisa.

Thieves Loot Parked Autos In Franklin

FRANKLIN, Pa., April 1.—Mrs. Jennie Sharrah reported to police that her pocketbook and other articles were stolen from her automobile which was parked near the Free Methodist Church.

E. J. McCauley, shoe salesman, reported theft of his sample case with $200 worth of new shoes from his automobile. The case contained only shoes for one foot.

Auto Strikes Bridge, Nurse Fatally Hurt

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 1.—(AP.)—Miss Emma Delle Eaton, 23, of Lawrenceville, Pa., a registered nurse, was fatally injured yesterday when her automobile crashed into a bridge abutment as she was attempting to pass a machine driven by her uncle, at a high speed.

The automobile, of which the girl was the sole occupant, struck a huge masonry anchor of the suspension bridge over the Chemung River, two miles west of here.

Prized Wanamaker Instruments Sold

PHILADELPHIA, April 1.—(AP.)—Announcement was made last night that the Rodman Wanamaker collection of rare old Italian violins, violas, violoncellos and contrabasses had been acquired from the Wanamaker Corporation by Dr. Thaddeus Rich, former concert master and assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

The collection, consisting of between 40 and 50 instruments, is considered one of the finest in existence. It includes instruments made by Antonio Stradivarius, Joseph Guarneri del Jesu and others.

JOHNSON HITS ROOT PLAN ON WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP.)—The Root-Hurst formula looking toward United States adherence to the World Court, which was indorsed recently by a committee of jurists meeting at Geneva, was attacked yesterday by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, in a reiteration of his opposition to this nation joining the international tribunal.

"From newspaper accounts," he said, "Mr. Root took to Europe one thing and brings back something entirely different. In the report written by Sir Cecil Hurst and so enthusiastically agreed to by the Geneva jurists, the United States would join the court, and thereafter, if advisory opinions were sought, in which the United States claimed an interest, a protest might be filed, which, if unavailing and still persisted in, might entitle the United States to withdraw from the court without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to co-operate generally for peace and good will. How naive!

RECALLS RESERVATION

"The agreement having thus been so kindly made at Geneva for us, there is nothing remaining to be done to solve the vexed question of advisory opinions and the participation of the United States in the court of the league than for the Senate to sign upon the dotted line."

The Californian recalled that one of the Senate's reservations to United States adherence was "that the court should not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any disputed question in which the United States has or claims to have an interest."

"If advisory opinions are as vicious as they have been represented to be by the friends of the court and its participants," Mr. Johnson said, "if the United States in 1926 could not safely join the court unless in advance it were agreed that no request for an advisory opinion in which the United States has or claims an interest should even be entertained, if the Senate was right in its former conclusion, the present suggested solution is no solution at all.

ISSUE DODGED, CLAIM

"If the United States enters the court induced by the delightfully artless proposal that it may withdraw, after a controversy concerning advisory opinions, it requires no prophetic vision to understand exactly what will result. The expression which has been so persuasive with our people, 'the opinion of the world,' and the insistence of our own internationalists, will keep us in. We'll be a party to all the wrong that has been asserted flows from advisory opinions.

"It will be observed that in Sir Cecil Hurst's reports, so ardently advocated by the Geneva jurists, the question of whether a majority or the whole council should unite in the request for advisory opinions was softly sidestepped. It would seem obvious, therefore, if advisory opinions are so objectionable, we ought not to join the League of Nations court."

IN TRIPLE KILLING

MR. AND MRS. PETER GALLANOS

Angered because she refused to return to Donora, Pa., to live with him, Gallanos, 38, drove to Steubenville, O., and waited until Mrs. Phoema Gallanos, 21, his wife, and her sister, Mrs. George Synodinus, 26, left the Synodinus home. He shot them both dead and then ended his own life with a bullet to his brain.

SLAYER BLAMES TRIPLE TRAGEDY ON WIFE'S KIN

STEUBENVILLE, O., April 1.—Funeral arrangements were under way here today for the two murder victims and the suicide in an Easter eve tragedy, in which Pete Galanos, 38, Donora (Pa.) bakery owner, shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Phoema Galanos, 21, and her sister, Mrs. Soultani Synodinos, 29, and then turned the weapon on himself.

The two women were instantly killed. Galamos died in Ohio Valley Hospital 45 minutes later.

"I killed my wife because I loved her and my sister-in-law because she caused me trouble and wanted my wife to marry another," wrote Gallanos in a letter found in his body.

FEARED BY GIRL'S KIN

The letter, written at Donora before Gallanos left for Steubenville to carry out his plan of murder and suicide, leaves his business and his soldier bonus to his brother, Chris.

The letter concludes with:

"I confess to God the killing of six Germans as a U. S. soldier at Verdun and what I did tonight."

Relatives of Mrs. Gallanos told police that Gallanos kidnaped the girl and married her at the age of 17 in Donora and that they have always feared him.

Some months ago Lalleanos kidnaped his wife at the point of a gun from her family here and took her back to Donora, police records show. Her parents regained custody of her and returned her here. They refused to press charges against the son-in-law.

CHILD SAVES BABY

Seven-year-old Daspene Synodino, one of three children surviving the sister-in-law, told police she was with her mother and aunt when Gallanos stepped from behind a tree and started shooting. She said she grabbed the buggy containing her baby sister and ran and that after he had killed the women, Gallanos fired one shot at her, the bullet lodging in a porch over her head. She said Gallanos shot his wife three times, then kissed her, cried good-bye and shot himself, falling over his wife's body.

3 SUPERVISORS FOR COUNTY IN 1930 CENSUS

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Plans for conducting the census of 1930 in Pennsylvania, made public here by Director of the Census W. M. Steuart, have revealed that the state will be divided into a total of 31 districts, with an equal number of supervisors appointed to direct the enumeration.

Allegheny County, it was disclosed, will be divided into three supervisor districts. Pittsburgh will be the headquarters.

Full details of the Pennsylvania enumeration plans were given to Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, in a letter from Director Steuart, just received at the senator's office here.

Senator Reed, in his request for full information, objected to the reported plan to employ the same enumerators that took the 1920 census on the ground that they virtually were all Democrats.

HOPE FOR FALL DATE

Director Steuart said that only two phases of the 1930 census remain to be worked out: First, the date on which operations will begin, and, second, the number of enumerators to be employed for each supervisor.

Due to the fact that the recent session of Congress failed to pass the new census bill, the bureau, he stated, is being compelled to hold final plans in abeyance until it is known whether the national population count will be undertaken under the old census law, calling for an enumeration as of January 1, 1930, or whether the count can be taken several months later in the fall, as contemplated in the pending legislation. It is the hope of census officials that the later date will be authorized, since it would make for greater accuracy.

On account of the inclement weather conditions prevailing in most sections of the country during January, rural communities are more inaccessible than in the fall.

CHIEFS TO GET $2,000

Supervisors, said the Federal census head, will be paid on an average of about $2,000 for the entire job. They will be actively employed for two months, but will be required to carry on correspondence with the bureau, become acquainted with their duties and do more or less work for four or six months, depending upon their activity and districts.

He added that enumerators will be paid on a per capita basis, with each employe assigned to a district that will enable him to earn from $5 to $8 a day, or a total compensation of $75 to $125.

The supervisors' districts as approved by the Census Bureau include:

Sixteenth District, Elks, Forest, Mercer, Venango, Warren counties, headquarters, Sharon.

Seventeenth District, Crawford, Erie, counties, headquarters, Erie.

Eighteenth District, Beaver, Butler, Lawrence counties, headquarters, New Castle.

Nineteenth District, Armstrong, Clarion, Indiana, Jefferson counties, headquarters, Punxsutawney.

Twentieth District, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, McKean counties, headquarters, Clearfield.

Twenty-first District, Franklin, Fulton, Huntington, Juniata, Mifflin, Perry, Snyder, Union counties, headquarters, Chambersburg.

Twenty-fifth District, Cambria County, headquarters, Johnstown.

Twenty-sixth District, Fayette, Somerset counties, headquarters, Uniontown.

Twenty-seventh District, Westmoreland County, headquarters, Greensburg.

Twenty-eighth District, Greene, Washington counties, headquarters, Washington.

Twenty-ninth, Thirtieth, Thirty-first Districts, Allegheny County, headquarters, Pittsburgh.

STEALS STREET CAR; JAILED

C. J. Coats, 33, of 19 East Main street, Carnegie, "took a trolley" Saturday night and landed in the West View borough bastile where he spent Easter Sunday pondering hard-boiled eggs, cops and railways company officials in anything but jovial mood. And besides—he still has to explain to the Mrs.

It began with an argument with his wife Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Coats explained, perhaps a little dejectedly, to West View officers and Railways Company officials.

To appease the good woman, Mr. Coats decided to fill her Easter basket with a few little trinkets of furniture and such, he said. He admitted visiting several shops on the North Side, of which none dispenses furniture.

After being ejected from a car in Avalon, it is alleged, he commandeered a car while the crew was absent and started a wild ride to West View, ignoring traffic signals.

His progress noted by pedestrians, word was flashed from the office of the Pittsburgh Railways dispatcher in Pittsburgh to Special Officer George Huff at West View and a welcoming committee was on hand to greet the self-appointed motorman. He fled, but after a short chase he was arrested.

Charges of larceny were lodged against West View's unwelcome Easter guest and tonight he will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Eugene Mehrlich, of Millvale.

Man Badly Wounded, Assailant Escapes

Suffering from a bullet wound, Walter Burrell, Negro, 38, of 39 Fonville street, was in a serious condition in Passavant Hospital today. Police said George Meyers, Negro, of the same address had shot Burrell during an argument. Meyers escaped.

HOUSE NAMED FOR NOTED STAR

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—With Monte Blue, acting as master of ceremonies, and a bevy of Hollywood stars to add "local color" to the occasion, San Francisco's newest motion picture house, the Marion Davies, was formally opened Saturday night. Notables from the film capitol, as well as society folk of the Bay Region attended.

Unfortunately the popular star for whom the new theater was named was unable to come to San Francisco for the opening because she is in the midst of a new picture. A letter from her expressed regret and conveyed her deepest gratitude.

Alice White created a sensation upon her arrival with Mrs. Ann Alvarado, wife of the film star. Miss White wore a gray fur coat, trim red pumps and no stockings! Monte Blue was accompanied here by Mrs. Blue. Carl Laemmle was accompanied by Sam Van Ronkel and Jack Ross, his secretary. Merna Kennedy and Glenn Tryon, who just finished co-starring in "Broadway," also came. With Merna is her mother, Mrs. Maude Kennedy. Lawrence Gray was another.

Telegrams included congratulations from Dolores Costello, John Barrymore, Edward Everett Horton, Grant Withers, Dorothy Mackaill, Marion Nixon, Billie Dove, Betty Compson, Jack Mulhall, Tommy Meighan, Lila Lee, Al Jolson, Lou B. Metzger, Louis Cohen, Jack Warner, George Arliss, Sophie Tucker, Pauline Frederick and Richard Barthelmess.

Spring Planting -:- By Truda Dahl

WHAT'S lovelier than a garden? And what's more fun than planting one and caring for it and tenderly watching each tiny leaf as it pokes its head through the earth? There's an inspiration about it that is equaled by nothing else on earth, excepting, of course, love. And tending a garden in Springtime leads eventually to a better and fuller understanding of love and its attendant happiness.

For Spring planting isn't only the flower seeds, it's the seeds of love that are planted through a mutual interest in a garden. And through the Summer it grows and buds and eventually flowers into the romance of a lifetime. So try Spring planting if you are seeking love. It's the surest way I know to happiness.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Your Signature

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. In speaking of one's husband to strangers, acquaintances, salespeople or friends, how would one speak of him? Should one say "Mr. Smith," my husband" or "Fred?"

2. How should a married woman sign her name under different circumstances? On her checks? In business? Signing letters, cards and so forth?

MILDRED.

WHEN speaking of your husband to close friends or even to friends not so close, you refer to him as "Fred." To acquaintances or to strangers, it would be "my husband." To salespeople or to servants, you say "Mr. Smith."

2. First a married woman decides what her informal married name is to be, whether Mary Smith Brown or Mary Brown. (These are the two forms most in use). This is the form of the name she uses when she signs checks—Mary Smith Brown. And usually that is the name that she uses when she signs other business papers, unless the nature of the paper demands the formal name included, too, in parenthesis under the

Mary Smith Brown
(Mrs. John Brown).

When she signs letters to her friends, she uses either the familiar Mary, or the more formal Mary Smith Brown, if her signature needs more of explanation. For business letters or letters to those who are not familiar with her formal name, this is the correct signature:

Very truly yours,
Mary Smith Brown
(Mrs. John Brown).

He Is a Boor!

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Here is my problem. I correspond with a girl friend. Her brother would get the letters and, before giving them to her, would open them and then seal them again, after reading them. He also took a letter that was addressed to me out of my purse—read it, and then tore it up. I stopped speaking to him on account of this. He thinks it is all a good joke, but I do not agree with him. Don't you think he owes me an apology?

2. What do you think of my handwriting? SERIOUS.

INDEED he does owe you the most profound of apologies. What a thoroughly uncivilized person he is! I hope that you can convince him that he will be an outcast from decent society if he doesn't mend his boorish ways. One of the most sacred items of life is our mail, and anyone who touches it, before or after it is read, without our permission, is an unspeakable cad, unworthy of any confidence or trust. For this boy to tear up a letter that he took from your purse well, I cannot think of a word descriptive of such despicable conduct. He needs a thrashing!

2. Your handwriting is excellent—full of character and charm. It deserves better than to be written on such queer, wiggly paper, and with purple ink. Use black ink, dear friend, and paper (or the same size and color that you use) of a refined texture.

Salt as tooth-powder is worth trying; it keeps the teeth brilliantly white and the gums hard and rosy.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Pain Spasms Often Due to Occupation

THESE muscles of ours have a habit of rebelling against continued wrong use made of them. They are patient, but if the demands are too great they will speak out in meeting.

DR. COPELAND

In the medical books we read about "occupational neuroses." What in the world are these?

They are the spasms or localized pains which follow abuse of the muscles. One example is the condition that is called "writer's cramp."

Telegraph operators, piano players, dressmakers, typists are liable to these symptoms. In any occupation where long continued, monotonous muscular efforts are required in the work, one of these ailments may appear.

Persons who have good health are not liable to have such trouble. Nervous people—what we call "neurotic" persons—are more likely to suffer these attacks.

The onset of writer's cramp is marked by dull ache or tired feeling in the wrist and hand. Then there is a spasm of marked contraction of the muscles of the arm and wrist.

There will probably be trembling of the hand and fingers. All the symptoms are made very much worse by attempting to work.

This trouble is different from neuralgia or neuritis. There is no tenderness on pressure. The nerves are not at all sensitive. But, as I have said, every effort to use the muscles in their ordinary occupation will bring on the symptoms, or make them much worse.

The cure is accomplished by prolonged rest. Nothing else will do more than to give temporary relief. Massage, baking, out-of-door life, lots of rest and sleep and upbuilding of the general health will do wonders. But rest or change of work is essential.

I wish we could get people to take care of themselves. Of course our social system is so defective that thousands of men and women are forced to work long hours, under evil conditions. The bread and butter problem makes it necessary to work hour after hour, and, in consequence, the nervous system cracks or breaks.

When we get wiser as a people and show better sense as individuals, the occupational neurosis will disappear. But alas! that joyful day is not here. It will come, but, in the meantime, we must do the best we can with those who suffer the effects of overwork and overworry.

"Change of work is play," is an old saying and a true one. Those unfortunate persons who have a tendency to such cramps as I have described should keep this saying in mind. Frequent periods of change in muscular effort will help to prevent the onset of this trouble.

If you have actually developed writer's cramp or any similar ailment, there must be complete rest. Every attention to the upbuilding of nerves and health are necessary.

Perfect nourishment of the body will prevent and help to cure the ailment. Foods must be well selected. The green vegetables and other vitamin carrying foods are important.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. Why don't we keep this in mind? If we did, the doctors would be out of business. Too many of their patients are seeking relief because of the violation of Nature's laws.

Madge Tells Marion Not to Discuss Her Stepfather

"OH, Auntie Madge!" Marion's voice was thrilling with joy. "Mother just told me what you had planned for us. I'm so happy I'm sure I shall burst. To think of that glorious motor trip to the mountains all alone with her! And you planned it all, you thoughtful darling!"

I drew her into my room and closed the door.

"I mustn't take all the credit, dear," I told her soberly. "I'm planning all the details, certainly, but—"

She interrupted me ruthlessly, her voice abrupt, her eyes shadowed.

"Do you mean that he thought of this?" she asked unconsciously stressing the pronoun, as she always does when speaking of her stepfather.

"He spoke of it, yes, when he told me that he was going away, so that you and your mother could be together, unhampered by his presence for the rest of your vacation."

I could not help the frigidity of my voice, for I fancied that I saw in her eyes a distaste for the plan because of her stepfather's part in it. But the next instant her arms were around my neck and she was saying passionately:

"Don't misunderstand me, Auntie Madge, although I don't see how you can do anything else, the way I've acted about my—my—stepfather."

It was the first time I ever had heard her refer to her mother's husband except with a formal "Mr. Underwood," but I had no time to consider the significance of her wording, for she was hurrying on tempestuously.

"I'm not resenting the fact that he thought of it as well as you," she said. "Honestly, I'm not. I think it was lovely of him, and I'm awfully ashamed of myself for the way I've acted toward him. I can't pretend to love him, but I don't hate him any more. You believe me, don't you?" she finished coaxingly.

I held her close and smoothed her bright hair.

"Of course I believe you, darling," I said, "and I'm very glad your feelings are changing. Don't hurry them, or force your heart in any way. Just don't be prejudiced, that's all you or mother or I ask."

"I can promise that, word of honor," she said, "I'll tell mother that, don't you think?"

I voiced as prompt a negative as I had given Lillian when she wished to tell Marion of Harry's thoughtfulness. I was thoroughly convinced that it would be better for both Marion and her mother if Harry Underwood's name were not mentioned except in the most casual fashion, while they were absent upon this trip.

"Tell her nothing until you come back from the mountains," I counseled. "Try to forget everything except that you and she are having the trip to which you have looked forward for so long. If I were you I would not mention my stepfather's name unless in some perfectly casual reference to him. You may be sure that your mother will be too busy and too happy in having you all to herself, to talk of anything but the good time I'm sure you're going to have."

"There's one thing certain, Auntie Madge," she said, with a flashing smile. "Nobody ever could call you 'Cassandra.' You are always making joyful predictions."

She kissed me warmly and went back to her mother's room, while I went to the telephone to find out the reason for an annoying little tinkle which had been coming from it while we talked. As I took down the receiver, I heard Mary Harrison's voice, on the downstairs phone.

"Hello! Hello! Oh! yes George, I've had the old Nick's own time to get you. What have you got to do this afternoon besides think deep thoughts?"

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Woman's Ruling Passion

IN THE average man's secret opinion, woman's ruling passion is her passion for making a man "give up" things.

Somehow, a woman is ALWAYS asking a man to "give up" something—a habit, an extravagance, a weakness, a pastime—or another woman!

* * *

Before marriage she doesn't believe he loves her unless he is "sacrificing" something for her sake. And after marriage, she doesn't think she is doing her duty unless she is making him sacrifice something "for his OWN sake."

HELEN ROWLAND

Even while she is telling him how wonderful he is, she is secretly planning to make him over into "a better man." That's being a "good influence."

* * *

She spends most of the courtship urging him to "give up" smoking so much, or to shave off his little pet mustache, or to give up his other women friends, or his wild stag parties—anything just so it's something he LIKES! Everything a man likes is bad for him!

And after marriage, she starts right in on his diet, his clothes, his daily habits and his secret indulgences.

She persuades him to give up his low soft collars and his wild neckties, and wear snappy stiff collars and conservative haberdashery; to wear suspenders, if he prefers a belt—or a belt, if he prefers suspenders; and to part his hair on the side, if it's parted in the middle—or vice versa.

* * *

She fondly urges him to give up eating rare roast beef and baked potatoes, which he enjoys, and to begin eating spinach and carrots, which he detests.

* * *

She tries to take away his second cup of coffee, and to substitute cereal with bran for his daily waffles and sausage.

She begs him to give up swearing, for the good of his soul, and to give up singing in his morning bath for the sake of the neighbors.

* * *

She urges him to give up reading in bed at night and put out the light; to give up his Saturday afternoon golf and stay home and wash the car; and to give up his Sunday morning beauty sleep and go to church.

* * *

She insists that he give up all his "vulgar, rowdy friends" who amuse him, and cultivate "nice people" who bore him to death.

* * *

In short, she is never happy unless she is "improving" him! And, as man that is born of woman is full of sins and weakness, it's a grand and glorious life-work! There is ALWAYS room for improvement! He's always GOING to "give up" something!

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, April 2

THE astral influences for this day seem to work with paradox. While ambition and unusual activity are under high stimulus, yet certain configurations bespeak futility and failure. There is danger from speculation and extravagance, as well as from impetuosity and turbulence. The employment is under a malefic sway, as are new undertakings. In the end postponement and conservatism are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is are under a threat of a year of complexity and confusion. With the energies and aspirations under high stimuli, yet the issues are not promising. Safeguard the employment and the finances, and postpone new ventures.

A child born on this day may be ambitious and large minded, but its visions and plans may meet defeat. Yet it will do better on its own account than in the employment of others.

Fling away ambition; by that sin fell the angels.—Shakespeare.

smooth skin always touches the heart . .

The cruelest test a skin can meet is the close-up. In the glare of the incandescent "sunspot" lights, a star's skin must show exquisitely smooth. That is why nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap.

JANET GAYNOR, winsome Fox star, in the bathroom—one of the most charming seen in Hollywood—which sets off so well her flower-like beauty.

ESTHER RALSTON, popular Paramount star, says: "In their close-ups stars are more closely observed than women in any other profession. Their popularity largely depends on the beauty of their skin. Lux Toilet Soap is excellent for keeping skin delightfully smooth."

MARY ASTOR, lovely Fox star, says: "A smooth skin is one of the most important assets a screen star has. Like every woman, I have to guard my skin. I always use Lux Toilet Soap—a lovely soap."

Nine out of ten screen stars use this soap for smooth skin

LOVELY SKIN, fresh and smooth—it is the very essence of that flower-like beauty the world finds so appealing! Every girl knows how greatly her power to charm depends on the clear smoothness of her skin.

In Hollywood, stars and directors alike know this so well! "People respond instantly to the loveliness of beautiful skin," says F. W. Murnau, Fox director—and sums up the experience of 39 leading directors.

"Every screen star knows this," he goes on to say, forcefully. "They take the utmost care of their skin. For in the close-up only the skin of naturally flawless beauty can stand the pitiless search of glaring lights."

Janet Gaynor knows so well how important a part lovely skin plays in her success on the screen—she is one of the host of adored screen stars who keep their skin exquisite with Lux Toilet Soap.

Of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 use this daintily fragrant white soap. They like its gentle care of their skin—its generous lather, too. All the great film studios have made it the official soap in their dressing rooms.

GULDEN'S Mustard

'DOPED' TO EASE PAIN, WAR VET ENSLAVED

WASHINGTON, April 1.—All the tragedies of the World War were not written on the battlefields of France.

Only a decade ago, Jack Smith, a robust, vigorous youth of 18, was found on the battlefield, more dead than alive. His clothes were caked with mud. A bullet had pierced his neck. Bursting shrapnel had shattered his arm and thigh.

Removed to the field hospital, he lingered for days between life and death. Gangrene set in. He suffered excruciating pain.

The doctor, to relieve Jack's suffering, administered drugs. The dosages were steadily increased.

BECOMES ADDICT

The inevitable happened. Jack became addicted to dope.

Although discharged from the army, Jack never fully recovered from the effects of his wounds. He found it difficult to obtain a position in civil life.

Besides, he was handicapped by the added curse of dope. Try as he would, he couldn't throw off the shackles of the drug. All his extra money went to buy the stuff—to satisfy the insidious habit he had acquired in an army hospital in France.

He married a childhood sweetheart. She fought valiantly with him against the dope.

Overwhelmed by ill health and the habit, Jack became a drifter. And then, when the money was low, he stole to buy more narcotics.

FIGHTS FOR CURE

Federal authorities arrested him in the south and returned him to a large mid-western city to face a theft charge. The judge, kindly and fatherly, listened sympathetically to Jack's story, but the jury convicted him.

"I'll give you a suspended sentence if you'll promise me that you'll go to an institution to be cured of this habit," said the judge.

Jack promised. His intentions were the best.

They sent Jack to a veterans' hospital in Washington. His wife came with him to be at his side in the greatest fight of his life. Jack is trying to beat the habit, doing his level best.

But dope appears to be winning, as nearly always it does, for just the other day, Jack appealed to a friend:

"Can't you do something for me? I feel myself slipping, and I don't want to get back on the stuff."

Dope is the sternest master of all, and the most relentless.

The best food for children

The best food for the growing child must of necessity contain Calcium and Vitamin A, because they are so essential to the formation of straight bones, sound teeth and for normal healthy growth.

"Philadelphia" Cream Cheese contains both these vital food elements in abundance. And child specialists, doctors and nutrition experts freely recommend it because of this very reason. It is, besides, a delicious dairy product made with the utmost care. "Philadelphia" Cream Cheese is wrapped in small foil packages to protect its creamy richness. It is never sold in bulk. Ask for it by name.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh Man Becomes Engaged to Girl From Wilkes-Barre

WELL, Easter is over, and that's that, as our young folks say. We who are past our school days are more prone to treasure up memories of such days, for we are not so sure that tomorrow is going to hold something infinitely more attractive, which is the fond belief of youth. And I must indulge in a bit of sentiment, and remark that it was a lovely golden Easter day. Not a splash of rain to dull our bright happiness or to spot our gay spring clothes!

And then Lent is over for many months, and we are going to have some most exciting social events right here in Pittsburgh during the coming three months. This very week we're going to have weddings, and next week and the next week and the next week, more and more weddings. Our spring is going to be decidedly bridal. Then will come our "little season," when young girls as fresh as June roses will make their bows to the social world.

SPRING always brings engagements, too. And next to a wedding, what is more interesting than a betrothal? Of note in the social world is the engagement of a Pittsburgh Man to a Wilkes-Barre girl. Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Ulick Buckman, of Wilkes-Barre, announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Buckman, to Reginald H. Macdonald, of the University Club.

Mr. Macdonald, who was a major in the British army during the World War, for the last year has made his home in Pittsburgh. He is a member of the Rolling Rock Hunt.

INFORMAL entertainments have been in vogue since the arrival of the school set. An "informal" always implies small numbers. Such an entertainment was the bridge luncheon Louise Caroline Gardner, daughter of the Kirkland C. Gardners, of Sewickley, gave Saturday. Jane Loomis, daughter of the James Lee Loomises, of Granby, Conn., Louise's house guest, was guest of honor.

ONE of the interesting bridges to be given this week will be that Mrs. William Irvine Parry, of Sewickley, has planned to give in her home Thursday afternoon for Mrs. Nicholas Trist. Mrs. Trist will be leaving early this month to make her home in Washington, did you know?

* * *

FROM now on folks will be returning daily from the South. Arriving for Easter were the Harry L. Darlingtons, who've been in Pasadena.

OF course some folks will stay away for several more weeks. James R. Mellon, brother of the secretary of the treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, is still in Florida. He motored over on Friday from his winter home in Palatka to St. Augustine, Fla., with a group of friends for a luncheon.

* * *

THE Ambrose Nevin Diehls will present their daughter, Joan Diehl, to society at a tea on Saturday, November 13. They will give a ball on December 23 for their debutante daughter. Joan will be graduated in June from the Westover School.

AT a tea given Saturday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bateman in Whitney avenue, Wilkinsburg, announcement was made of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Eastwood Bateman, to William Barron Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar E. Howell, of Marion, Ala. The appointments were in blue and white, the colors of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, of which Mr. Howell is a member. An early fall wedding is planned.

THE marriage of Miss Marion Elder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Elder, of Springdale, and Edward A. Montgomery, of Grove City, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Elder home by the Rev. Dr. A. McKenzie Lamb, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Cheswick. The bride wore ivory satin with a tulle veil and carried calla lilies. Miss Frances Wright, of Cheswick, as maid of honor, appeared in yellow georgette and carried spring flowers in yellow and orchid. Robert C. Montgomery was his brother's best man, and his sister, Miss Ann Louise Montgomery, played the wedding music. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery have left for Pinehurst, N. C., and upon their return will be at home in Sheridan avenue, Bellevue.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH T. WILSON, of the Schenley Apartments, have as their house guests their daughter, Mrs. Walter Mullenhagen and her sons, Hugh and Walter, Jr., of Detroit.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. J. F. KEENAN, of the Schenley Apartments, are in New York over Easter. And Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sturgeon, of the same apartments, left Friday for an extended stay on the Pacific Coast.

* * *

THE A. B. C. Club will hold a spring frolic Friday night, April 12, at the Riverview Inn. Miss Eleanor O'Neil will give a feature dance. The committee in charge of the affair includes Allan Richards, chairman; Norris Niekum, Hugh H. Woods, Jr., Albert Marks, George L. Baxley, Harry Vaughn, Harry Smith, Peter Hennigan and John Shoub.

A RUMMAGE sale for the benefit of the Louise Home for Babies will be held at 6130 Penn avenue, beginning Wednesday at noon and continuing through Thursday. The home is maintained b the Young Women's Guild of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church. Mrs. Grace C. Hooker is general chairman with Mrs. B. W. Lewis in charge of the sale of women's clothing; Mrs. W. R. Kuhn, children's clothing; Mrs. Grant Dibert, household supplies; Mrs. J. K. Everhart, men's clothing; Miss Ada Benner, shoes; Mrs. G. T. Bushfield, novelties, and Mrs. W. S. Horner, hats. Mrs. Jones M. Roberts is president of the guild.

* * *

MRS. J. K. IRWIN, Mrs. J. A. Ellen, Mrs. H. F. Gleason, Mrs. J. N. Succop and Mrs. G. L. Franklin will be hostesses Thursday at the bridge luncheon to be held in the Pittsburgh Field Club.

* * *

A RECEPTION will be held Thursday night by the Little Flower Club in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Sterritt Building, North Side. Miss Anna Barrett is chairman.

MISS FLORENCE HOPPER, of Mt. Lebanon, is spending the Easter holidays with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Di Salvo, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

RINEHART COMEDY.

A dramatized "My Country Tish of Thee" will feature the program.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, the author, has given her consent and this humorous story of a middle aged trio of "old maids" will be presented in the form of a radio drama.

The three women, imbued with the "See America First" idea, decide to tour Glacier National Park. Letitia Carberry, or Tish for short, is the principal character and as leader of the "M. A. T." (Middle Aged Trio) stages a coup resulting in the capture of a bandit gang which had just made a "stick up."

The reason for the apprehension of these villains was Tish's desire to bring to public ridicule a group of movie heroes with a holdup and robbery as the climax. The three women under the direction of Tish surprise the supposed film heroes at night, force them into subjection with the threats of wooden revolvers whittled for the occasion and then lead them in captivity to the Many-Glacier Hotel.

There they learn that their prisoners are real bandits with a reward on their heads and Tish has to take a cocktail to quiet her nerves. The story is humorous from beginning to end with the author at her best in describing the park tour of the M. A. T.

PITTSBURGH HOSPITALS ON HONOR ROLL

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN COLLABORATION with Uncle Sam: A Brighton Road Commuter reports an acrimonious debate between two motormen over which one should back his car on a turn that prevented the cars passing unless one or the other would beat a retreat . . . That it was on a rainy Monday morning and the only one in the vicinity whose nerves stood the test of impatient discussion was a passenger with a robust hang-over . . . On such a morning it is a wonder that either motorman yielded . . . Morgue statistics show most likely that most homicides occur on rainy Monday mornings and certainly they are fertile hours for the divorce crop . . . Dr. I. L. Kinney commends the column on an accurate portrayal of deaf mutes, among which he is numbered . . . He reports a motorcycle driver who is also a deaf mute . . . So that's why those motorcycle riders make such a racket . . . If they aren't making a racket they're sneaking up on motorists subtly pretending to be motorcycle policemen . . . Who knows anything about Martin's Cabin, so placarded, in Schenley Park? . . . Frank C. Morris would like to know . . . A local Foster or Haskins has a chance to score on this one . . . From Saranac Lake, New York, a client says our makeup man made an error and wants something done about it . . . Very well, let the makeup man consider he has had a fist shaken at him . . . George Sharp, opening summer stock here for his third season, sends an invitation to be on hand, for which, I suspect, Miss Helen Donnelly should receive a cheer or so . . . The Waynesburg Chamber of Commerce, through W. W. Ankrom, sends an invitation to be in Waynesburg on April 10, on which day Cash and Carry Pyle's bunion experts will trot through that town . . . "The 50-mile drive from Pittsburgh to Waynesburg," notes Mr. Ankrom, "is well worth while. You go through Mt. Lebanon, Morganza, Canonsburg, Washington and Waynesburg . . . The road is entirely improved, being cement for most of the distance" . . . Have they fixed that main street in Houston, yet, Mr. Ankrom?

GETS KEY TO CITY

MAYOR KLINE GIVING LUPE VELEZ KEY

Lupe Velez, actress in Pittsburgh, as Mayor Charles H. Kline today in his office gave her a key to the city.

LUPE VELEZ, SCREEN STAR, INSISTS SHE'S HOMELY

Imagine a movie star to insist that she's ugly; that she doesn't care for money—a whole lot.

Pinch yourself when you hear her boast that she refused, yea, laughed at movie directors when they suggested that she take the screen test; and insists that she doesn't know much.

Picture a bit of Mexican femininity, with as much action as the well-known jumping bean, always moving, always playing, always humming, always going. Then step up and shake hands with Lupe Velez, movie star and actress, who arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday.

THRIVES ON SPEED

Shake hands with her, if she can be quiet that long. For speed is the first virtue of the young woman who a few years ago was the toast of Mexico City, and is now noted especially as an American motion picture star of the first magnitude.

Miss Velez likes publicity. She admits it. But she confidently believes that she's not good looking. And that's where she's wrong, but—

She's the second Mexican maiden to come to this country and become a great luminary in the movies. The first was Dolores Del Rio. But Miss Velez admits there'll be more.

"I was a born mimic," she said. "My father was shot in the Obregon fight and I had to go to work. My mother was an opera singer. She got me a job. I had learned American songs and how to play the ukelele at school in San Antonio. Mexico likes things American. I soon became a favorite. My dreams became Broadway. I got there, to the legitimate theater, later the movies.

DREAM COMES TRUE

"And that dream is not mine alone. It is privately every Mexican girl's hope to come to and be a success in the United States. More and more Mexican girls will come here. We love our own country of course, but here lies success. Not money, necessarily. I care not too much for money. I like the applause. I am a Latin. I like to be admired, no matter whether I am ugly or pretty.

"And I have been fortunate. New York, Los Angeles, Chicago—they have all been kind. When they quit being kind—zip."

Her hand shot swiftly across her throat, as though it were a knife. She meant "finis."

DRYS JAIL FIVE OVER SUNDAY

Arrested in a raid on the Delmont cabaret, 120 Federal street, North Side, five men probably will be released in bail this morning.

Thirty of the "boys and girls" were making whoopee in the North Side resort Saturday night when a squad of Commander John D. Pennington's dry agents swooped in and spoiled the fun.

None of the visitors was arrested. But Joseph Jaffe, 40, of 120 Federal street, alleged proprietor; James Berfford, 33, of 1918 Perrysville avenue; Thomas Masson, 29, of 628 Wylie avenue; Eugene Mageler, 45, of 1540 Alabama avenue, and Arthur Phillips, 43, of 925 Vickeroy street, all waiters, were docketed as Federal prisoners at Central Police Station. They were ordered held for the United States Commissioner.

Due to the recent order of the commander, all five spent Saturday night and Sunday in jail. Heretofore it has been possible for victims of the local prohibition administrator's mopping up expeditions to obtain their release by posting $1,000 bail.

The raiders seized 10 pints of whisky and gin, they reported.

E. Liberty Postal Building Delayed

Delay in occupying its new building by the East Liberty postoffice, has been occasioned by the non-arrival of mechanics to install automatic equipment already in the building. Superintendent Charles Cuppers, who had expected to be in the new location by April 1, has announced that it will probably be two weeks later before the change can be made.

WORK SPEEDED ON NEW LINCOLN HIGHWAY

Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania motorists are greatly interested in the completion of the road between Imperial and Clinton, which recently was designated as a part of the Lincoln highway.

In relocating the highway between Crafton and Chester, W. Va., the western portion of the road has been completed as far as Clinton, and affords a splendid highway. The work between CHnton and Imperial is being rushed and probably will be completed by early fall. This work is presenting many difficulties to the engineers, but most of them have been surmounted.

The winding trail that has served the community for many years is being discarded for a modern and straight-line road. Hills have been cut through, gullies filled and treacherous curves and other hazards eliminated.

When completed it is estimated that the road will reduce the running time to Ohio by more than an hour and take the traffic from the more congested districts.

SIX BOYS HELD IN ATTACK

Six boys were held for further investigation in Morals Court today after two sisters testified they had been seized and one dragged into Riverview Park last night.

Marion Evans, 20, of 2917 Charles street, testified that she and her sister, Lois, 17, on an Easter evening stroll, were surrounded by the boys near a shelter house at Perrysville and Delaware avenues.

They were thrown to the street, Marion testified, and she was carried into the park. Lois escaped and attracted the attention of a passing motorist. The boys fled. Lois corroborated her sister's story.

Four of the boys, each 16, admitted seizing the girls. They gave their names as Eugene Decker, 4 Milroy avenue; Frank Schrim, 2449 Howard street extension; John Weidenwehr, 2323 East street, and Harry Vogel, 816 Luella street. Two other boys, each 14, were not questioned.

MOTHER FEARS FOR LOST BOY

Police have been asked to search for Roger Shaw, 17, missing from his home at 43 Chatham street, since March 22. Mrs. Mary Shaw, the youth's mother, appealed to the police in the belief that her son had met with foul play.

Young Shaw is described as being five feet seven inches tall and weighs 140 pounds. He has red hair, grey eyes and fair complexion. When last seen, according to the mother, he was wearing black suit with white pin stripe, brown overcoat and light gray cap. He had been employed at the Fort Pitt Hotel and has not been seen since he left for home at midnight on March 22.

Church Shows Sunday Movies

DR. AMOS BEFORE HIS SCREEN

FILMS ENHANCE CHURCH APPEAL, RECTOR FINDS

Community motion picture and stereopticon services at which non-religious films are shown and hymns and prayers are projected on the screen are attracting large audiences every Sunday evening at St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, Forbes street and Craft avenue.

The Rev. Dr. Waldo A. Amos, rector, is responsible for the unique services, which, he believes, meet a real community need and attract hundreds of people to the church.

Despite the fact that the films shown at St. Peter's Church are as secular as any shown in motion picture theaters on weekdays, Dr. Amos believes that they all convey a moral lesson. While the picture is projected on the screen to the accompaniment of organ music, he makes frequent comments from the pulpit on the moral lesson involved in some particular scene.

Films recently shown at the church were "The Covered Wagon" and "The Heart of a Hero." The former, according to the rector, is rich in lessons and served to drive home many truths in a manner even more graphic than many a sermon. The latter film depicted the story of Nathan Hale, of Revolutionary fame.

"No orator could deliver a patriotic address that would teach as fine a lesson in patriotism as this picture does," Dr. Amos said.

Secular motion pictures in no way detract from the essential religious atmosphere in St. Peter's Church, Dr. Amos believes. The rector wears his cassock as at regular divine services. The choir is vested and sings anthems. Hymns and prayers on slides are projected on the screen. The audience joins in the hymns and in the prayers. The very atmosphere of the church edifice with its beautiful Gothic arches, dimly lighted chandeliers under it, and its altar in pale light, serves to imbue the audience with a sense of the solemnity of the occasion.

FOUR SOUGHT IN SLAYING

County detectives are searching for four Negroes, one a woman, as the result of the death of a white man in Broughton Saturday night.

Elmer Holmon, 28, the dead man, was stabbed in a fight, according to county detectives, and Frank Sevakus, a friend, was cut on the leg. Sevakus is being held in the county jail as a material witness.

According to Alfred Holman, Elmer's brother, Sevakus, Patrick Conlon and himself were walking along Brownsville road at Broughton last night when a fight began between the Negroes and the white men. Alfred said he saw his brother run down the road, and later found him dead.

Dr. M. V. Davis, of Broughton, was called. He attended Sevakus, placing five stitches in his leg, and pronounced Holman dead.

Alleged Pint Costs Saloonkeeper $100

Charles Klein, who conducts a saloon at 95 South Twenty-seventh street, was fined $100 by Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side police court yesterday, after it was testified that a pint bottle of moonshine liquor had been confiscated in his place when Lieut. James B. Earley and squad raided it Saturday night. Klein was arrested on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

SURVEY BRINGS RECOGNITION BY U. S.

High standards of proficiency maintained at several Pittsburgh hospitals have won the Pittsburgh institutions a place on the 1929 list of approved and recognized hospitals following a survey of hospitals in the United States by the American College of Surgeons and National Hospital Council of the American Medical Association, it was learned here today.

The Pittsburgh hospitals approved by the American College of Surgeons, whose requirements are met only by the country's leading institutions, are:

HOSPITALS LISTED

The council functions as a fact-finding and rating commission, serving as a clearing house of professional information concerning hospitals throughout the country.

Honor recognition is based on efficiency of the hospital and among the most important factors considered are the following qualifications:

THE REQUIREMENTS

A staff of qualified physicians who are graduates of reputable medical schools, an able and ethical management, a competent pathologist to study tissues removed at all operations, competent nurses, regular staff conferences, and finally the institution shall not be conducted for profit but for the purpose of securing better medical service for the community are among the requirements.

All hospitals are privileged to apply for recognition and only those which apply for admission are included in the survey. During the past year special efforts were made to secure information regarding hospitals deemed unworthy of recognition. Four hundred and fifty eight hospitals were investigated and disapproved. Twenty-one Pennsylvania hospitals were disapproved for the official hospital register of the American Medical Association.

Today's Flagism

The battle of Five Forks, a major engagement in the Civil War, was fought April 1, 1865. Old Glory, as usual, went forward with one more victory to her credit, and it was only a few months later that the cause she represented triumphed completely and the period of her greatest danger had passed.

RADIO AID TO TEACHING, SAYS CHANCELLOR BOWMAN

Dr. John G. Bowman, chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh, is very much interested in the project of placing a radio in every class room. It is his opinion that radio is succeeding in the schools and can have very beneficial results.

School Radio

DR. JOHN G. BOWMAN

Dr. Bowman, chancellor, University of Pittsburgh, thinks that "an interesting by-product of the radio my be the betterment of teaching." He is very much interested in the Sun-Telegraph - Stanley - Warner Brothers' program for putting a radio set in every class room.

In a letter to the Sun-Telegraph, commenting on the Sun-Telegraph-Stanley-Warner Brothers' coming drive to place a radio in every room of every school in Pittsburgh, Dr. Bowman says:

IMPROVES TEACHING

"Your enthusiasm about the use of radio in the schools interests me. Will it succeed? Nobody knows. I think, though, that it is succeeding. For five years we have been sending educational programs from the university to the greatest of all schools, which is the public; the one persistent criticism which we get is: 'That is what we want—give us more.' The nature of this criticism is my reason for saying that the radio program is succeeding in schools.

"I have no idea that the radio will take the place of direct teaching. It may, however, improve teaching. The reason is that a good radio talk must be definite and to the point. The radio talker must say something, or the listeners will shut him off. An interesting by-product of the radio may be, therefore, the betterment of teaching."

PITTSBURGH SETS PACE

Broadcasting of educational programs has been in force in several cities for some time, but it remains for Pittsburgh to lead the way to complete installation in every class room. With the support of the public and the school children, the Sun-Telegraph and Stanley-Warner Brothers' Theaters are prepared to pave the way for this latest important improvement.

NEARBY STATES ENTER TYPICAL GIRL QUEST

As the sands in the hour glass run out, so dwindles the time remaining for entrants in the Typical American Girl contest.

So, too, the $5,000 prize and the hour for her departure for Paris and other interesting European capitals draw near for the winner-to-be.

The winner will not be known, however, until the judges meet. And the judges will not meet until the last letter mailed before midnigh of April 7, has had ample time to reach the Quest Editor.

NEARBY STATES ENTER

Some of the nominations that have come to the Quest Editor today are from outlying districts, a good many are from West Virginia and Ohio, while a large number are from the Pittsburgh metropolitan district.

The judges will begin their primary selection next week, just as soon as adequate plans can be made to handle the large number of nominations steadily coming in to the Quest Editor.

QUEST DIGNIFIED

Many compliments have been paid the Sun-Telegraph on the clean and dignified method with which the Typical American Girl contest is being carried on in Pittsburgh. The entire contest, from coast to coast, in which 21 newspapers and Smart Set Magazine are participating, has been and will continue to be conducted upon the same plane.

The aim of this quest, is to find the girl who can best represent the American girl as a whole and embodies in herself the characteristics of the modern American girl.

The judges will decide whom she is. All you have to do is send in a description and picture of her. Send it to the Quest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph and don't delay any longer.

NEW YORK, April 1.

The BROADWAY MELODY by Jack LAIT

One of the Show Girls Tells Queenie to Beware of Stewie Worthington

(From a Scenario by Edmund Goulding.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Eddie Kerns, song plugger, has written the music for "The Broadway Melody," a big revue to be produced by the famous Zanfield. For two years Eddie has been engaged to "Hank" Mahoney and now he sees his way clear to marry her. She and her younger sister, Queene, are playing in vaudeville and Eddie summons them to New York and tells them he has managed to place them in the revue. They are overjoyed, but Eddie suddenly discovers that he's lost his heart to Queenie who has developed into a startling beauty in the two years since he saw her last. He keeps his secret from "Hank" and the girls turn down a long vaudeville contract for a chance to make good in the revue. Zannie, after seeing the "Mahoney Sisters" perform, decides that he could only use Queenie. She, however, appeals to him to also give her sister a chance in the show. He consents. "Hank" believes that she put it over. During a dress rehearsal Eddie shows the sisters the big ad in the newspaper announcing their coming to Broadway. When Hank kisses Eddie, Queenie cries. Zannie gives Queenie a place in the revue. She makes an impression and the two "angels" of the revue invite her out to dine after the show.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

QUEENIE MAHONEY stood on the stage with the non-negotiable half of the first thousand-dollar bill she had ever seen, in her hand.

Steward Worthington, who had put it there, and whose subtly unsubtle overture it had climaxed, linked arms with Francis Warriner, the urbane young blood, and the two, without a backward smile, went through the stage door and back into the dark auditorium where sat Zanfield, beneficiary of their inspired bankroll, gilding the dress rehearsal of "Broadway Melody."

A bit dazed was Queenie. She was 18. But she had been in the show business three years. She had been grabbed at and worked at, mostly by clumsy actors, stagehands, house managers, traveling men she met on day trains, and hotel clerks in smalltime stands. She had entertained several more or less respectable proposals and been entertained by more or less disreputable propositions.

Ever since she was in rompers, playing on the hard and hardening sidewalks of Chicago, she had protected herself against the sleek or blunt approaches of the predatory sex. Nature endows all its creatures with instruments of defense.

And these avail, until, too often, there comes a beast too powerful, too swift, too cunning for the congenital weapons, though strengthened by long practise at warding off the other brutes.

Girls far less experienced and exposed than Queenie knew that men hunt pretty girls, and that money is one of the big bore and high caliber fowlers. Money meant little to her, per se. She would rather have earned ten dollars at her beloved profession than found a hundred in the street, leaving out entirely any other ethical, moral or romantic considerations. She was an innocent, maidenly youngster; ordinary temptation rolled off her knife; and what she hadn't been born with or hadn't learned by bruising contact the hard-boiled Hank had instilled and drilled into her.

But heretofore her training had been with pikers. Such men as Stewie and Warry not only said it with large amounts when they talked turkey, but they were important, rich, big town and big league, dressed like gentlemen and armed with high-power sporting equipment to hunt in the preserves behind doors labeled "No Admittance—That Means You."

She had not gambled for such blue chips with such gilt-edged cards before.

As she stood there, struggling for the logarithm of this new setup, Dore d'Onegin (nee Dora Donnegan), showgirl, strolled over to her.

A slapsided, diet-reduced, flint faced veteran was Dore. She had served in the ranks of many a revue. She had portrayed in pantomime characters from September Morn to August Eve. She had survived many follies and many Follies. Her prop smile was a Broadway familiar. Her start was lost in antiquity and her finish would be found in obscurity.

She slung a line of eloquence when aroused that would have made a longshoreman blush. And she had a heart that reached and responded to the wail of a sick kitten or the tincan banalities of a mother ballad. Her once brown hair was phoney red. Her reputation was more genuinely of the same shade. She kept her mother and her married brother's whining widow. She prayed regularly, she played promiscuously; she paid cheerfully and collected eagerly; Broadway was to her a wide open book—that would never have been passed by the Boston censors.

"Listen, dearie," she opened up, "I was clocking that start those high steppers just tried out. I think I got their angle from my slant. Did they slip you the half-grand trick? Don't put your hand behind your back! It's a standard racket. They got 84 more if that one don't click.

"Now, take it from a selling plater who broke records as a two-year-old. That Stewie Worthington is a fast worker, a deep digger and a loud speaker. But he's toothless, harmless and getless. But—oh, baby!—look out for that Frank Warriner! He's a fox, but you're as safe with him as in a den o' lions.

"Warry never brassbands. But he's under cover with more larceny than there is in Sing Sing. He's got more style and less soul than any man I ever cried over. His grandfather used to buy black slaves. Frank switched colors on him. Stewie's a soupy safe-blower that never got further than smoke and noise. But Warry's a soapy cold-finger operator that untwists combinations.

"Now, you're sittin' on top o' that love boat an' on top o' the world. All sorts o' men fall for musical show beauts—from the best to the boloneys. It depends on herself how a girl that gets in that spot comes out. She can break herself or be broke; she can be made or make herself. Marriage isn't always the last word in life's success. And with Warry—that's out. If he ever brought you home to his mother, with hygienic ice water in her veins and blue ink in her fountain pen, the butler'd show you the servants' entrance.

"He won't make a drunk, or a fool out o' you, like Stewie would. He'll treat you like a lady, give you privacy and etiquette and class. No, he won't make a spectacle out o' you. He'll make you despise your past and sneer at your future. When he gets through with a girl, he has her spoiled for everybody.

"Whoa! I know—you want to inquire in your pipey voice just how all this happens to be my business. Well, it ain't — it's my pleasure. Haven't had as much lately as I used to get when I—well, for instance, when I had as much looks as you and as little noodle. You'll probably shrug those million-buck shoulders and say, 'H'm—them broken-down models past their second-hand value, who've had theirs, get a wallop out of interferin' with my type gettin' her.' Yep—I've had mine, I hope you never follow me. I wish I was you now and knew what I know now.

"I'm not goin' to bore you . . . I never was a mother, I never had a kid sister, and the world'll tip you off I'm no matrons for the S. P. C. A. But you're a cute young punk, you couldn't pass a civil service intelligence test for a traffic expert in Times Square, and so you think you have the wisdom of Solomon and the judgment of Bismark.

Therefore, though I could be smokin' a cigaret at this moment, which would get me more and you just as much, I feel it my duty to register my convictions, like a good Democrat at a professional election, with no hope o' winnin' anything, but just so I can, after lappin' up my quota of bathtub gin, retire with the unconsciousness of havin' come clean.

"With those few well chosen words, to learn which I had paid plenty and pretty, I bid you a fond and affectionate over-the-river because somethin' tells me my number is about to be called, and that stage-manager can give you a ride like nobody's business if you miss your entrance . . . remember what I told you, which I released though I promised my dear old mother at her bended knee that I'd never wise up a chump——"

And she turned and breezed toward upstage center, where the ladies of the ensemble were forming the line to drift on, with parasols poised on shoulders, bathing suits that would have driven Neptune to throw his three-pronged fork at a lorelei, poses that made a strut call a stride a stroll, and stenciled expressions on their faces that bespoke "We hope you went to the scalpers and paid $9.90 for your tickets—we're worth it—and it serves you right."

Queenie remained, pondering, wondering.

It seemed the whole world had changed since she was elevated to the high-peak perch on the prow of the Zanfield love boat. From a pitiful flop she had been shot up to a sensation from an unnoticed minor half of a smalltime sister act she had burst into a prize beauty, in demand not only by the mighty glorifier, himself, but the rich amateur pickers. Half of a "grand note" was in her hand to prove it; the other half was hers for the sitting at table in a ritzy cafe and being treated to the choicest chow in New York.

Peril—danger worth Dore's impassioned philosophy and paunchy pleading, hung over her. It was aromatic, pungent, intoxicating. Queenie wasn't highly imaginative. She was rated as phlegmatic and stolid. But all this made her blood run faster. For it had been so sudden.

Yes, the whole world had changed.

She was about to start for her dressing room, when out of it, coming toward her, was Hank. And hurrying upstage in her direction, also, was Eddie Kerns, her sister's fiance, her own—her own what?

She plopped to the earth with a bang.

No—not the whole world had changed!

There was more world for her in these two than in all the rest of creation put together. She was not yet Queenie Mahoney—she was still one of the Mahoney Sisters. And Eddie—Eddie was still engaged to Hank.

Mirage By H. LOUIS RAYBOLD Daily Short Story

FAR across the desert's dusty face glimmered what appeared to be a lake of silver sheened surface and tree fringed shore. Monty Jim, loping along towards it, knew the apparition for what it was but it pleased him to imagine that his eyes saw truly.

The water in his canteen was almost gone and his lips were of that peculiar cracked dryness familiar to those who have ridden steadily beneath a blazing sun.

"That there lake would be about where Jamie Peterson's ranch now is, being there was a lake," he mused aloud. And then his thoughts concerned themselves with James and his family. He had helped them, after the death of Jamie's wife, pack their goods into the rattling old flivver and head for Boulder Dam, where Jamie hoped to land a job. They had been gone about a month now.

"I shore would have fallen for that girl of Jamie's if they hadn't cleared out," he continued. "Pretty as a picture. Mighty good thing for me they went." And he rode on his way, relieved and carefree.

The lake glittered and faded, only to reappear and fade again.

After its last disappearance Monty began to watch for the tar-papered shack and tiny corral that had long been a shelter for the Petersons. When finally he sighted it, he saw something else as well. A black speck beside it that grew, gradually but unmistakably, into a car. Into a flivver. Into Jamie Peterson's rattling old flivver, by the Big Horn mountains!

Monty's eyes brightened for a moment. Then his shoulders sagged and he heaved a sigh that seemed drawn from the depths of his heavy boots. Jamie was back—and Ansie must be with him.

"Old hoss," he said sadly to the graceful creature he was riding, "better look out nobody crowds you in my affections from now on. I'll stop and pass the time of day and fill my water bag and then I'll be getting along."

Monty found Ansie sitting dejectedly in the doorway of the shack. Her right arm was in a bandage and she lifted a pair of lovely blue eyes as he dismounted beside her.

"Guess you're some surprised to find us, Monty," she said quietly. "Pa had trouble with the car from the first and then I broke my wrist cranking it, so we turned back to Bowdleton to the doctor's. Then it seemed easier to keep on home again, especially as Pa got talking with a man back from Boulder Dam who said there was twice as many men as places to put them."

"Where is your pa now?" inquired Monty, unstrapping his canteen and going towards the well.

"Oh, he met another man who got him to join up with him prospecting for silver over in Crippled Men's Creek. And the well's terrible, Monty. Needs digging out again."

Monty moistened his lips with his tongue and managed a whistle.

"Get a shovel, Bill!" he bade Ansie's young brother. "And a pail. I'll bail her out and rid her of sand. Don't fret, Ansie."

It was cool down in the well and Monty worked cheerfully. Darn Ansie's old man! What business had he chasing up this thing and that and leaving a parcel of young ones to shift for theirselves! He must find out how Ansie was fixed for grub.

Ansie was very well off for grub for the present, it seemed. She had all the stores they had loaded up the flivver with to take to Boulder Dam. These would last for some time, and with the well cleaned, her water supply was O. K.

There was no reason Monty shouldn't say good-by and pursue the even tenor of his way.

There was, on the contrary, every reason why, if he wanted to break the spell her blue eyes invariably cast upon him, he should ride way from them while the riding was good.

The sun was a gorgeous semi-globe of orange on the horizon when Monty finished his job at the well and went back to the house where Ansie had managed with one good arm and the help of the twins to fry some cakes and heat up beans and coffee.

Later, he stood beside his horse, twirling his big hat on his hand.

"Where you headed for, anyhow, Monty?" asked Ansie.

"Me? Oh, I heard they was short a wrangler at the Bar V."

"Where are you aiming to sleep tonight?"

"Sleep? At Shoshoni Peter's." Then he held out his lean, brown fingers. "So long, Ansie," he said. "If you should need me for anything, I'd come from anywheres."

Mounting quickly he rode away and, as he rode, he remembered the lake he had seen that afternoon that hadn't been a lake at all. Men, perishing of thirst, had followed just such visions to a tortured death. Men were always following visions. Look at Ansie's pa. One moment it was a job at Boulder Dam. The next, silver in Crippled Men's Creek.

No dream job hundreds of miles away had ever lured him — Monty. Prospecting had never gotten him, either. He was no mirage chaser. Yet, wasn't he?

Riding along in the cool, sage-scented night wind, he wondered what kept him from marrying Ansie. Did he want to lay by money? No, already he had a tidy sum drawing interest in the savings bank. He guessed it was just that he wanted to hang on to a sense of freedom.

"And that's a sort of mirage," he said soberly, talking out loud as was his custom. "Having no wife nor kids of my own, I'm at everybody's beck and call when they get into trouble. And I'm a slave to them darn rodeos. Everybody thinks it's no proper rodeo if Monty Jim don't ride. If I was married to Ansie now, she wouldn't let me risk my life that way. If I was married, I wouldn't be wrangling for this rancher and that. I'd buy the Q Bar and I'd hitch up with the Bowdleton ditch and I'd raise hawgs and alfalfa. Git you old hoss, 'cause tomorrow you got to git back Ansie along with the son."

"Your eyes, Ansie," Monty gravely one day, like two blue lakes u them fringes of lashes. pretty lakes. But lots re than some lakes what seen."

31 YEARS OF Better ICE Service

It's New! The Growth Vitamin of Sunlight put in a hot breakfast food

Irradiation of Quaker Farina by Ultra-Violet Rays important new food development

NOW a way has been found to bring you and your children at the breakfast table that "something" in sunlight which has such a tremendously beneficial effect upon health; which makes children's bones grow straight and strong; their teeth harden and become durable. Vitamin "D," scientists have named this mysterious quality.

The famous hot breakfast cereal, Quaker Farina, is now given Vitamin "D" by irradiation with Ultra-Violet Light under the Steenbock Process. When children grow up "sun starved" for lack of Vitamin "D" they are apt to show it by bow legs. Their teeth are soft. They don't eat; they are "always having colds." As high as 90% of city children show signs of Vitamin "D" deficiency say health authorities. This fact makes the need of finding new ways to get "sunshine" of prime importance.

By irradiation with Ultra-Violet Light Quaker Farina, famous hot breakfast food, is given Vitamin "D" in a form that can be easily passed on to you! An exceedingly important discovery, authorities call this. Won't you try it? Irradiated Quaker Farina is the creamy white heart of the wheat. An energy food of fine flavor. "Irradiation" doesn't change this, nor its appearance. And now it has an added health value that no other hot cereal can claim! Your grocer has irradiated Quaker Farina. NOTE: All Quaker Farina is irradiated even though some packages are not so marked.

Small danger of "sun starvation" here!

"IN TWO WEEKS KONJOLA MADE ME WELL AGAIN"

Grateful Man Suffered Eight Years. Freed From Stomach Trouble and Neuritis.

The grateful praises that have been showered upon the wonderful new medicine, Konjola, for its marvelous achievements in stubborn cases that have defied and repulsed all effort for relief, bear eloquent evidence to the effectiveness of this remarkable remedy for stomach, liver, kidney and bowel trouble and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MR. JOSEPH W. RODGERS

Day after day, the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, is greeted by happy men and women, eager to tell of their experiences with this master medicine. It is upon actual results obtained that Konjola has built up its wonderful reputation. This new medicine is not one of promises, but of performances. Those who have been restored to new and glorious health are living testimonials to the merits of Konjola. It is a graphic recital that Mr. Joseph W. Rodgers, of Gibsonia, Pa., near Pittsburgh, makes in telling what this medicine did for him. Surely, in his statement, is to be found much of hope for all who suffer. Read every word that Mr. Rodgers said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"In two weeks Konjola made me well again after I had suffered eight years from stomach trouble and neuritis. It is really hard to describe my condition for I was in a pitiful shape, unable to find a medicine that reached the source of my troubles. My stomach was so disordered that if I stooped over after eating a meal, a hot bile poured from my mouth. My head ached something awful. Dizzy spells were the bane of my life. Even at night I did not get any relief and sound sleep was out of the question. My arms from the wrist to my shoulders were affected by the neuritis pains. Often they became so severe I thought I would go mad. Then catarrh developed. There seemed no hope for me.

"But all that was changed, quickly and surely, by Konjola. My only regret is that this medicine did not come to Pittsburgh sooner. Think of the years of suffering it would have saved me. One of my friends first recommended it to me and without hesitation I determined to give it a trial. One bottle showed me that I had gotten hold of an honest medicine and one that would do all that is claimed for it. Within a week I knew that, at last, I was on the road to health, and traveling fast. A week later I was a well man. Just think, in two weeks, Konjola banished those three ailments. There isn't a trace of stomach trouble, neuritis or catarrh. I know this statement sounds unbelievable, but every word is the truth. It all goes to prove that Konjola is the master medicine."

Thus Konjola triumphs over disease that has baffled every treatment tried, and the marvelous record of this super-medicine means that what it has done for others it will do for you.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

Catherine Evans, Hazelwood schoolgirl, who suffered concussion of the brain and other injuries February 16, when struck by an automobile, has, through her father, David H. Evans, brought suit for $30,000 damages against Floyd Porter. The bill of complaint sets forth that she was waiting to board a street car at Greenfield and Sylvan avenues, to go to school. Hoovers' Cars to Be "Incognito"

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(INS.)—Weaving in and out of Washington's tangled traffic maze in the near future will be two shiny motor cars, the property of "Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hoover, of 1600 Pennsylvania avenue."

They will be smart and expensive, and altogether in keeping with the wealth of the Pennsylvania avenue family, but they will bear no distinguishing insignia to indicate to the public that their occupants are the President of the United States and his wife.

The Hoovers have decided to maintain two "incognito" autos in which they may make their informal and personal trips in and around town without attracting the attention which the official White House limousine invariably does.

Dry Raiders Seize 14 Stills in Homes

Orchestra to Teach School Children

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP.)—The tuneless rattling piano of the "Little Red School House" days is passe and Chicago school children hereafter will learn music from the Chicago Symphony Orchestra.

Frederick A. Stock, director of the orchestra, and William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, announced that an arrangement has been made whereby special concerts would be offered to teach the students how to distinguish and appreciate good music.

"The plan contemplates a four-year course and the subjects and compositions for the next school year have already been agreed upon," the announcement said. "The first year program embraces six features: Rhythm, strings, woodwinds, brasses and percussions, melodic development, structure and general.

"As each branch of this course is studied in the schools, it will be followed by concerts by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra with appropriate programs."

Virginia to Unveil Wilson Memorial

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., April 1.—(AP.)—A tablet to the memory of Woodrow Wilson will be unveiled at the University of Virginia on the morning of Saturday, April 13, in connection with the Jefferson Day exercises. The war president was a student at the university from 1878 to 1881.

Onorio Ruotolo, New York sculptor, designed the tablet as an expression of the ideals of Wilson as shown in the League of Nations.

CHOCOLATE RATED AS DRISCOLL-GANS

ALUMNI, undergraduates and other supporters of Duquesne University, after reading of the hefty 25-game basketball schedule that confronts the Dukes for next season, are in a decidedly congratulatory mood today toward Graduate Manager John D. Holahan and the athletic council up on the Bluff on account of their success in signing Chick Davies for a three-year term as head floor coach.

Chick Davies

Since the close of the 1929 campaign, which was far from a glowing one, as far as the Dukes were concerned, and the resignation of John H. Irwin at Carnegie Tech, it had been feared in some Duke circles that the Bluffites might lose the services of Chick. It was generally known that Davies did not have longer than a one-year contract and thought he was entitled to more money than he was getting. So when the rumor was freely passed around that he was to take over the reins at Carnegie Tech; it was given much credence, and caused no little worry among Duquesne folk. Holahan, however, realizing the worth of the Homestead mentor, made special efforts to bring about a reconciliation between Duquesne and Davies.

THE result was that Chick affixed his name to a three-year paper, carrying a substantial increase in salary, one reported to be within a couple hundred dollars of the figure he had demanded. It is possible that the color and attractiveness of the schedule mapped out by Holahan had a great deal to do with Davies' decision to remain on the Bluff.

Now that he is certain to be in charge of court affairs at Duquesne again, Davies may begin looking forward to the most ambitious program the Dukes have ever attempted. Not only is the schedule a heavy one, with its 25 games, but the class of the opposition, with one or two exceptions, will test the capabilities of Chick and his team to the utmost.

THE two trips to the East, during which powerful seaboard quintets will be played, and the opening jaunt through the middle West, with the Iowa University game as the headliner, will give the Dukes much broader recognition than they have ever before gained.

John H. Irwin

The game with Iowa, even though it is an opener, looms as a fine one for the Dukes, as a victory will establish the Pittsburghers on a high plane as a basketball school. The fact that it has held such a position hereabouts for some time means nothing to the folk in the middle West. They have to be shown.

ONE strange angle to the schedule is the fact that Westminster, always a big drawing card in Pittsburgh, will not appear on the Duquesne home program. Only one game has been carded between the Dukes and Titans, and that will be played in New Wilmington. It appears as though Manager Holahan has passed up some certain coin in not bringing the United Presbyterians to the city next winter. Two games will be played with each of the four other Conference fives, giving the locals nine league games and making them eligible for the Conference championship, provided they win enough victories. One thing certain about the signing of Davies, it has cleared the coaching atmosphere at Tech by erasing just one name from the list of those reported as being in line for the post vacated by John Irwin.

THIS week ushers in the Eastern horse-racing season. A program of about 160 days of racing at Eastern tracks will be started tomorrow, when the spring meeting at the Bowie track will get under way, with the Inaugural Handicap as the feature. The Preakness will be run on Friday, May 10, at Pimlico, eight days before the running of the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs.

Maryland track dates are: Bowie, April 2 to 13; Havre de Grace, April 15 to 27; Pimlico, April 29 to May 11; Havre de Grace, September 20 to October 2; Laurel, October 4 to 30; Pimlico, November 1 to 13; Bowie, November 18 to 30. New York meetings will be run as follows: Jamaica, April 23 to May 16; Belmont Park, May 17 to June 19; Aqueduct, June 11 to July 4; Empire City, July 5 to 27; Saratoga, July 29 to August 31; Belmont Park, September 2 to 16; Aqueduct, September 17 to October 1; Jamaica, October 2 to October 16; Empire City, October 17 to November 1.

SOME stuff coming out of the Cleveland club's camp that would be termed by baseball's heart-throb writers as a pretty bit of sentiment, will strike most fans as being instead only a bit of spring fiction. It is said that Manager Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Indians, considers his new acquisition, Bib Falk, the best outfielder in the game.

Charley Jamieson

Peckinpaugh declares Bib can make plays that cannot be equaled by any other gardener, but that he will be kept on the bench nevertheless out of respect to a slipping veteran. The slipping veteran is Charley Jamieson. It is admitted that Falk would be a much better man in left field than Jamieson, who has passed his peak.

BUT the Indian management asks the public to believe that in reward for past services Charley will be allowed to remain in left field if he cares to stay there. The decision will be left to himself, it is said. If he wants to stay in left field and keep Falk on the bench he will be permitted to do so, in recognition of his great work in other years, it is said. What a sweet lot of bunk. It has a pretty sound during the exhibition period, but wait until the real season arrives. No club is throwing away any championship ball games through sentiment, and if Falk is as far superior to Jamieson as reported you'll find Bib playing left field when the bell rings, whether Jamieson wants to continue there or not. Cleveland didn't make a trade for Falk to keep him in the dugout.

POSSIBLY you didn't notice it, and are not particularly interested, but just to keep yourself informed on the happenings of the day you ought to know that Cash and Carry Pyle's New York-to-Los Angeles footrace started yesterday afternoon from Columbus Circle in New York. Very appropriately, perhaps, the starting gun was fired by a comedian—Will Rogers.

Pyle evidently is a glutton for punishment, and seemingly holds the same opinion of the public, when he comes back with this second transcontinental bunion derby after losing money on the one he put on last year, in the opposite direction, Los Angeles to New York. This time he has talked the runners into paying an entrance fee of $300 and agreeing to pay their own living expenses on the journey, which, he thinks, will let him out with a profit.

ACCORDING to the schedule mapped out, the race will end in Los Angeles on June 18. You can make your own guess as to how

BANTAM RIVALS ON EDGE FOR GO HERE

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Two out-of-town rivals, Andy Martin, of Boston, and Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Columbus, O., are resting here today preparatory to clashing tonight in the 10-round main bout of the first professional boxing show in Motor Square Garden since early in January.

The bout is a "natural," as a result of outstanding exhibitions given by the star bantams in the same ring early in the indoor season, Martin against Johnny Datto, the Filipino, and O'Dowd against Jackie Rodgers. Each showed so much class that the fans demanded that they be pitted against each other, and the match has been all of this time in the making, due to the fact that the Garden has not been available until just now.

Both principals arrived in the city yesterday and limbered up lightly. Each said he was primed for a great test. They will scale in at the Garden at 3 p. m. and will enter the ring at approximately 10 o'clock.

SNAPPY PRELIM CARD

Matchmaker Jules Beck has put together the best-balanced preliminary card of the season at the East End arena. It will bring together Terry Lingo, of Columbus, a stablemate of O'Dowd, and Frankie Steinmack, Cleveland lightweight, in the eight-round semi-final, and Buck McTiernan, highly-touted light-middleweight, of Swissvale, and Mickey Soimen, of New Castle, in the six-round feature, while two four-rounders will open the show. In these bouts Bob Krape, middleweight champion of the Pennsylvania Railroad, will oppose Bob Concrete, reformed marathon dancer, and Ol Iovino, Swissvale southpaw, will battle Georgie Tomosky, of Wilmerding, for the second time in less than a week, the pair having staged a hard fight at Steubenville last Tuesday night.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30. The new scale of popular prices, ranging from 75 cents up to $2.50, will prevail, and the advance sale presages one of the largest crowds the Garden has held in some time.

NEWTON AT WASHINGTON

Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., and Mickey McDonald, of Donora and formerly of Hamilton, Ont., box the 10-round main bout of a show in the Washington (Pa.) Gardens tonight, with Frankie Buff boxing Ken Hargraves, a rival New Kensingtonian, in the semi-final and Harry Spencer opposing Bud Phillips in the other principal preliminary. The Midget Wolgast-Willie Davies show scheduled at the New Castle Jolly Bowl has been postponed until April 25 because of an attack of influenza suffered by Wolgast.

Phil Goldstein, local lightweight, boxes Jackie Brady, of Syracuse at Albany, N. Y., and Howard Mayberry, Donora bantam, meets Midget Fox at East Liverpool, O., tonight.

Robinson Shifts Wright to Second

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 1.—Glenn Wright will probably be at second base for the Brooklyn Robins when they face the Boston Braves today. Manager Wilbert Robinson has announced he will play Wright at second base until the shortstop's arm is strong enough to permit him to return to his regular place.

DREYFUSS SAYS WANER ASKED MEETING

According to an official statement made today by the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, the story sent out of Ada, Okla., Saturday night, to the effect that President Barney Dreyfuss had asked Paul Waner to meet him in Texas for a conference on the player's holdout, and that the balking rightfielder had refused to budge an inch unless his terms were accepted, was absolutely without foundation.

On the contrary, it is said that Waner made the first advances, but the club declined to consider his proposal on the ground that it was unreasonable.

This information was received by Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss here today in a letter from his father in San Antonio, Tex.

"The story that my father had asked for a conference and that Waner had refused was unfounded," said Treasurer Dreyfuss. "Just the opposite was true. It was the other way around. Without any solicitation or suggestion from the Pittsburgh club, Waner voluntarily wired a proposition to my father. The club did not take any step in the matter, leaving it entirely up to Waner to say what he wanted, which he had not done up to the time he sent the telegram in question. My father informs me that he wired back at once, notifying Waner that his proposition could not be considered, as it was out of all reason."

Harvard Cancels Southern Track Tour

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 1.—(INS.)—The Harvard track team has cancelled its southern trip this year. Instead the squad started practicing today for the Penn relays and the international meet in which Crimson and Yale athletes will compete against a combined Oxford-Cambridge team.

BLUFFITES SIGN DAVIES FOR LONG TERM

By JESS CARVER.

The local college basketball coaching situation, which has been in sort of a tail-spin since the resignation of John Irwin at Carnegie and the threatened walkout of Charley Davies at Duquesne, straightened itself out somewhat today with the announcement by John Holohan, graduate manager of athletics on the Bluff, that Chick has been signed for a three-year period as court coach. The salary figure, which was not given out for publication, will at least keep Chick from battling with the wolf at the door.

John Holohan.

For the past two weeks the boys have been hinting strongly that Charley, rated one of the most successful college coaches in the sector, was headed for Carnegie Tech. They also had him in line for Francis Stadsvold's job at West Virginia, provided Francis made good good his oft repeated threat to retire.

Duquesne alumni and close adherents squawked bloody murder when they heard Chick was to leave, especially when, as it was understood, that only a salary difference and the question of a two or three-year contract stood between Charley, the Duke athletic council and perfect peace.

TECH JOB PENDING

Now that the Duquesne angle is cleared up for the next three years at least, we can settle down to a period of waiting until the Tartans decide on the selection of their coach. Buddy Overend, the Rajah of the Plaid, assures us that there will be an announcement forthcoming within a week's time. He told me this last Saturday.

Yank Sluggers Pound Fliers For 14 Hits

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 1.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees got revenge for their defeat by another Southeastern League team by walloping the Pensacola Fliers, 12 to 2, yesterday. The world champions bowed to the Jacksonville Tars, 13 to 12, the day before.

The Yankees pounded two Flier pitchers for 14 hits. Ruth hit a double and a triple in three times at bat, while Eggert, local shortstop, crashed out a home run in the closing frame.

BUCS TACKLE CHAMPIONS TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Staff Correspondent.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 1.—Their largest crowd o the preparatory season is expected by the Pirates tomorrow when they clash with the Yankees. Babe Ruth's drawing power is expected to put many thousands in the new ball park, provided the weather is seasonable.

Barney Dreyfuss did not come over with his team, but there is a chance he will make the trip by daylight this afternoon. Dreyfuss' throat trouble had eased up yesterday, but the specialist in San Antonio cautioned him against traveling in sleepers.

BUCS "SCOUTED"

The Pittsburgh magnate seems to be anxious to see his team in action against the Yanks. Barney got off a good one while the Pirates were in action in San Antonio. He declares the Yanks "scouted" the Bucs for the game of tomorrow. Eddie Herr, Yankee scout, watched the Buccos in the other Texas city.

Wallie Tauscher, the owner of two homers in the spring tour, cracked out the longest drive in yesterday's frolic when he slammed the rocket high and dry to the centerfield boards as the crowd held its breath. The fans waited to see whether the wallop would clear the barrier, a feat seldom accomplished.

The hard batting Harry Riconda as he subbed for Capt. Traynor was sweet music to the ears of Donie Bush, but the good impression left by the Italian boy tends to further involve the problem of utility infielders. Coburn Jones looked like a future star in the recent battle with the Tigers. The little Welshman, however, has had scant experience. Jonesy should go a long way in baseball; he's always in the pink of condition and he's a lovable kid.

And then there is Jim Stroner, another third base patient. The Wichita slugger states he is feeling stronger all the time; he thinks he can swing into action within a week.

BIG PROBLEM

An infield composed of Sheely, Grantham, Adams and Traynor would leave Stroner, Riconda, Bartell and Jones as extras. The club will not carry more than three utility infielders, perhaps only two. And therein lies Bush's problem. On the other hand, this puzzle would soon solve itself if Bush could be sure of the first choice quartet.

Meantime Paul Waner's silence is beginning to roar. The mystery holdout has added a good sidelight to his act. Oh, well, Paul used to be a southpaw pitcher—and you can never tell what those left-handers are going to do. Seriously speaking though, P. Waner apparently meant "no foolin'" when he decided to hold out.

Among the Pittsburghers who paid their respects to the Pirates in San Antonio were T. J. Dixon and Archie Loeffler, of the Willow Springs Country Club. Dickson is the owner of the fine 18-hole layout and Loeffler, cousin of the Pittsburgh stars, is the club professional. Many tourists from the Pittsburgh district enjoy the Willow Springs course while in Texas.

These two teams survived a field of nine which started play Friday. The others were Pittsburgh, New York, Chelsea, Mass., Syracuse, N. Y., Paterson, Perth Amboy and Scranton.

Herewithem J. P., Local Dog, Wins High Honors

CHICAGO, April 1.—"Champion Herewithem J. P.," a pointer owned by R. F. Maloney, of Pittsburgh, was chosen champion of all breeds in the dog show of the Chicago Kennel Club which ended last night.

The Pittsburgh pointer, by virtue of his triumph, was awarded the John C. Eastman trophy, valued at $1,000. Maloney will keep the cup for one year. A solid gold medal was also presented him.

Champion Herewithem J. P. took the highest honors in competition with the best dogs of 47 other breeds. Saturday, he was selected the best pointer of the show.

PIRATES SLAM SAN ANTONIO, 23 TO 9

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.
Staff Correspondent.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 1. — The Pirates were a couple of hundred miles closer to home cooking this morning as they rolled out of Southern Pacific sleepers in this bustling city. Some big stuff is slated for Houston in the next three days, the program reaching a climax tomorrow afternoon when our boys take on Babe Ruth & Co. Before taking on the Yankees, the Pirates will challenge the Houston club, games with the Texas League champions being carded for this afternoon and Wednesday.

BUCS FATIGUED

Many of the Pirates were fatigued last night. The Bushwhackers spent most of Easter afternoon in running up a tremendous score against the San Antonio club in that city. Playing under a hot sun the Pittsburghers overwhelmed the San Antonio boys, 23 to 9.

The Bucs will disport themselves on a fine minor league grounds in this city. Since they were here two years ago, the town has erected a pretty park in keeping with the bustling spirit of the community. Frank Snyder, former Giant catcher, is the manager of the local team, and a right smart pilot he has made.

Manager Bush stated today that Burleigh Grimes would start against Houston. If Burleigh feels well, he probably will take about two-thirds of the game. Ervin Brame is down to relieve him.

WANER, RICONDA HIT

The Pirates piled up 23 hits at the expense of San Antonio, Lloyd Waner and Harry Riconda leading the attack with four each. The Texans also were in a batting mood, collecting 19 blows in the fracas.

Capt. Traynor was out of uniform and action on account of his ailing hip. His place was filled very acceptably by Riconda, whose bat was working overtime. Lee Meadows gave a good impression as he toiled for four rounds. Wallie Tauscher relieved him and finished up. The barrage of hits that came while Tauscher was pitching probably would have been curtailed had not his mates achieved an unusual lead.

UMP HURT

The Pirates enjoyed two innings of five runs, one of four and then called it a day in the ninth by pushing eight tallies over the rubber. Thee minor leaguers came back with five in their half and sent the home supporters home in a better mood than they would have been otherwise.

Umpire Ted McGrew, who has been on tour with the Pirates, was struck on the right elbow with a wild pitch in the early part of the game. The official was so painfully hurt he had to leave the game. Coach Jewel Ens assumed the official role for the remainder of the afternoon. McGrew, however, expects to be able to "do his stuff" today.

HEIDELBERG, MAGYARS PLAY HERE APRIL 13

By TOM BIRKS.

Heidelberg and the Cleveland Magyars will play their Western final national amateur cup game at the University of Pittsburgh Stadium a week from Saturday—April 13. This was finally decided at a meeting of the national amateur cup committee at the Pittsburgher Hotel Saturday night.

It took a hard fight on the part of the Pittsburgh soccer men to bring to Pittsburgh its first Western final, but the fact that the Steel City made such a wonderful showing in the grand final, when La Flame, of New Bedford, came to Pittsburgh two years ago, was the winning point of the local argument.

Bill Angus, chairman of the national amateur cup committee, and Johnny McEwan, of Cleveland, proved themselves real sports in the final alloting of the game. They had Harry Fairfield outvoted in the controversy regarding the staging of the game, but did not exercise that majority.

GREAT SOCCER EVENT

Without question, the appearance of the famous Magyar club at the home of the Pitt Panther will be the greatest soccer event since the Glasgow Rangers, and seeing that the Clevelanders have been the nemesis of Heidelberg twice in the tourney, the Green and Gold has plenty for which to fight.

The only appearance of Hoffman and his great team in Pittsburgh was two years ago, when, in a sea of mud, Heidelberg eliminated the Forest City team at Heidelberg in a replayed game. Soccer men are anticipating the greatest soccer crowd Pitt has ever seen.

Should Heidelberg be successful in defeating the Magyars, it is possible the grand final of the national amateur cup will also be played here. The Rassies, of Fall River, and the German club, of Newark, are the Eastern finalists.

SUSPENSION LIGHT

Sentiment around the Pittsburgh district, a reaction to the Corinthians-Heidelberg trouble, is that the national amateur cup committee has been very lenient with Manager Warner Mackey in his suspension, expiring January 1, 1930.

Any home club is liable for the safety of the visiting team and reference from the time it enters until it leaves the town. And that in case of the least suspicion of trouble, police should be on hand to control the crowd. Commissioner McEwan called Mackey on Friday evening, and the Corinthian manager was emphatic in declaring he had police.

At the game, Mackey admitted he had made no preparations for police and that is what caused his suspension. Nothing was done regarding the Corinthians players, none playing any part in the disgraceful scene that followed the path of Heidelberg's players to the dressing rooms.

The Curry field has always been a thorn in the side of soccer officials, and no team or referee ever landed there without a feeling of relief when the town was left behind. The grounds have been closed at least twice, and always the same argument that nothing will ever occur again has reopened them.

GROUNDS CLOSED

This time, however, the local association is powerless to act. The national committee has closed the ground indefinitely and they may never again be opened for organized soccer. When it becomes unsafe for teams to play at any grounds, it is for the good of the game for them to be closed.

One well posted soccer man felt the national cup committee favored West Penn. These fellows, McEwan and Angus, of Cleveland, cannot be trifled with. Their hearts are in soccer, and both are businesslike, devoting much time to the game. McEwan saw what happened, and with his confreres acted quickly. Seeing what has happened before, more drastic measures would not have been surprising.

RISKO FIGHTS VON PORAT

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP.)—With circus performers occupying the arenas usually given over to ring warriors in New York and Chicago, the fistic sportlight this week will be divided between Los Angeles and Boston.

The West gets the larger part of the calcium glare with a battle between Tod Morgan and Santiago Zorilla for the junior lightweight championship. The bout was scheduled for Tuesday night but has been postponed until Thursday, because of a boil on Morgan's leg.

A real scrap is on the card when Morgan takes his title back to the city where he won it nearly four years ago. The lithe Californian and the 21-year-old San Blas Indian have fought once before for the championship and Morgan felt the crown rocking on his head before it was over.

Boston's contribution is a heavyweight struggle, Thursday night, between Otto Von Porat, hard punching Norwegian from Chicago, and Cleveland's former contender for the championship, Johnny Risko. It is a fight from which almost anything may develop. Risko, considered a leader among the big fellows only a year ago, has gone a long way on the downward path, but he still is able to do some real fighting.

MID-ATLANTIC CARD SET

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 1.—(AP.)—A 120-game schedule, to be played between May 9, when the season opens, and Labor Day, was adopted by representatives of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League here yesterday. Each team will play 60 games at home and 60 abroad. The contests will run in two, three and sometimes four-game series. There will be no split season this year.

Because four of the eight towns in the league—Johnstown, Cumberland, Wheeling and Clarksburg—play Sunday ball the drawing up of a schedule for the circuit is no easy task if a proper apportionment is to be made. Every club in the league except Wheeling was represented.

President Elmer Dailey, of the league, said the final draft of the schedule would likely be ready for release within the next 10 days.

The Cumberland situation has been straightened out, with the formal transfer of the franchise to a new ownership known as the Community Baseball Association.

The Johnstown franchise also has been transferred to new owners following completion of sale negotiations last week.

Hewitt spilled 628 pins in this division, while his partner was getting 622.

The two Erie teams on Saturday night placed in the prize-winning column of the five-men event with fairly good scores. The Pope Taylors topped the National Hotel five by 34 pins, scoring a total of 2,845. The Nationals trailed with 2,811. The scores:

EAST-TO-WEST RUNNERS HEAD FOR TRENTON

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 1.—(AP.)—Out of a welter of curious Easter Sunday promenaders jamming Columbus circle so that even the runners were lost in the crowd, Charles C. (Cash and Carry) Pyle's second annual cross-country foot race started from New York and wound up at Elizabeth yesterday—its first step on the way to Los Angeles, Cal., with Ed Gardner, Seattle Negro, in the lead.

The 81 assorted sizes of athletes, after fighting their way through a crowd of close to 25,000 at the start, jogged through the city streets, ferried across the Hudson and pedalled through Weehawken, Jersey City, Harrison and into Elizabeth with almost 500,000 persons lining the 24-mile way.

The swift ride on the ferry, adding speed and cutting down the running distance enabled Gardner to cover the first of the 80 laps in 1:59:36, with the second man, Semp Richman, of New York, only 15 seconds behind. The Belgian brothers, Karl and Juul Cools, distance champions in their homeland and both strong runners, finished third and fourth.

COSTUMES VARY

Clad in every type of converted costume, from red flannels down to a hybrid type of silk baseball uniforms, the runners set out on their 3,400-mile jaunt under auspicious circumstances. There was a warm sun and bright skies overhead. Dozens of motorcycle policemen, speeding escort, cars and cheering thousands, but the crowd at the start, lured by the sight of waving flags, completely upset Pyle's plans.

So dense were the strollers, rubber-necking about in a milling mob in an attempt to find out what was happening, that Will Rogers, the Cowboy comedian, fired the starting pistol at 3 o'clock from a cramped position no where near the athletes and started the throng in two directions.

The runners fought their way clear and on to the road to the ferry while the spectators, many of them still not knowing that the Bunion Derby was the cause of the excitement, headed for cover in the opposite direction, dragging women and children with them. Pyle's greying thatch, thinning somewhat by promotional contact with professional football and pro-tennis, as well as the first Bunion Derby, appeared there to grow grayer still in the confusion.

POLE IS LOST

Harry Abramowitz, veteran with Gardner and Richman of the first cross-country race, headed the pack to the Municipal ferry, with the Negro star second. Amid scenes of great excitement, the runners were ferried across to the Jersey shore, only to discover that one of their number had missed the boat. Scouts found the missing one, George Jusick, of Poland, still pedalling carefully down the cobblestones of Eleventh avenue and brought him across on a later boat. The race was halted until he arrived. With the exception of the Cool brothers and the foreigners drawn from overseas by the lure of $60,000 in prize money, $25,-1 to two

Hyatt and Mates Win Honors In Tourney

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., April 1.—Charley Hyatt, Pitt basketball star, carried off a large assortment of trophies at the close of the fourth annual tri-state amateur cage tourney here late Saturday night.

Hyatt and other Pitt court performers, including Wrobleski, Cohen, Miller, Zeyfuss, Ferrero and Arture, playing as the Trotter Chevrolets of East Liverpool, lost to the Oxford A. C., Miami U. varsity players, in the championship final.

Hyatt was named the most valuable man and was also high scorer of the tourney, with 73 points in six games. In addition, he received the silver loving cup presented to the runner up, and was named forward on the all-tourney team, along with Ferrero as a guard.

Kid Chocolate

MUCH has been said and written about the class of Kid Chocolate as a fighter and a championship prospect, but the biggest boost he has yet received comes from Jimmy Walsh, of Boston, who was bantamweight champion in 1904 and went to England to defend his title against Digger Stanley. Walsh, who refereed the recent Chocolate-John Vacca bout in Boston, declares the "Keed" is one of the greatest ringmen he has ever seen. "Chocolate is another Jim Driscoll and Joe Gans rolled into one man," Walsh says. "That may seem to be laying it on a bit thickly, but I honestly believe it. The Kid has everything. If there are any more like him in Cuba, some of our own champions ought to go down there and learn something."

EASTERN TURF SEASON OPENS TOMORROW

By TOM THORP.
International News Service.

BALTIMORE, April 1.—The Eastern racing season swings into action at the popular course of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association at Bowie tomorrow. Racing patrons from all over the turf world are on their way to be in attendance when the bugle, calling the thoroughbreds to the barrier in the opening race, is sounded at the Prince Georges County oval for the 11-day meeting. Arrangements are being made to accommodate the largest inaugural throng in the history of the sport in Maryland.

POPULAR COURSE

Bowie has grown to be one of the most popular courses on the "big apple," a term which characterizes the major circuit of racing. It was not so long ago Bowie was considered "in the bushes." The clubhouse and grandstand were nothing more than fire traps, built of yellow pine which was gathered when the space for the track was cleared of its oak and pine trees.

Now Bowie is one of the most up-to-date in the entire racing world. It was rebuilt two years ago after fire destroyed the stands.

EXPECT FINE ENTRIES

The Bowie meeting is sure to attract a fine quality of thoroughbreds to its events. There are more than 1,500 horses stabled in and around the Prince George County course at the present time.

TIA JUANA CLOSES

TIA JUANA, Mexico, April 1.—(AP.)—Flying Heels, Gifford A. Cochran's star colt by Flying Ebony and Heel Taps, proved easily the best in the Tia Juana futurity, the $7,500 added stake, which brought down the curtain on the race meeting here yesterday after 107 days of racing.

DUKES RETAIN CHICK DAVIES

sistant basketball coach at Washington University at St. Louis and freshman football mentor there, has added his name to the long list of applicants for the Tech job. Manager Overend has been swamped with telegrams, night letters, clippings, letters of recommendations and what not from St. Louis people, advising him to sign this bird and sign him quick.

According to some of the info, which has fallen into my hands, Benson teaches a combination of the Purdue, Illinois and Wisconsin systems of basketball. Take that for what it may be worth. He is an Illinois graduate, and in 1926, coaching at Urbana High School, he won 15 out of 16 games. In 1927 he won 12 games and lost five at the Thornburn School, Urbana.

Besides coaching varsity basketball, Benson would like to assist with the football mentoring. He appears to be a gent who thrives on work. So do we all—not! At least, he has a great press agent system.

MUST SEE MIDGET

An old friend of mine, Midget Mike O'Dowd, is fighting here in town tonight and I'm going out and see him work. Mike was battling around Cleveland when I was working there, and I saw him flatten the clever and rugged Johnny Williams one night with a right-handed wallop on the jib that put Johnny in goofy land for a week.

Mike is a great little fellow to know. He can hit like all get out with that right hand, is clever with his left and does some funny things to you there in that ring. He can take it, and, what is more, will take it.

FROTH

Reggs Snyder passed out a cigar the other day.....Then spoiled it with this crack.....Won't smoke it in here".....The basketball reis put on the feed bag Tuesday.....That WILL be an event.....Don't come in overalls.....Leo McGlinchey is wearing dark glasses.....Having finally acceded to the pleas of the fans.....That was unkind.....But Leo can always take a joke.....If the rest of the world was as square as Mac, we wouldn't have to lock the front door o' nights.....Or keep a dog.....A lady in Kaufmann's Saturday asked where you purchased tickets for the esculapors.....No kiddin'.....Have you started your garden yet?

Tri-State Duckpin Play to be Resumed

The annual Tri-State duckpin tournament, being conducted on the Strand Alleys, in Oakland, will be resumed tonight with competition in five-men, doubles and singles events.

The tournament was opened on Saturday night, when James F. Malone, president of City Council, made a speech and rolled the first ball.

GIANTS SHIFTED

SHREVEPORT, La., April 1.—(AP.)—Manager John McGraw has called for a new deal in his two teams of Giants who are barnstorming their way to New York. Eddie Roush, Chick Fullis and Curly Ogden join the first squad while Veltman goes to the second team.

Phils Buy Rookie Hurler from Cardinals

TAMPA, Fla., April 1.—(AP.)—Harold Elliott, right-handed pitcher drafted from Waco, of the Texas League, last winter by the St. Louis Cardinals, has been sold to the Philadelphia National team, Secretary Clarence Lloyd, of the National League champions, has announced.

Elliott, who won 16 and lost three games for Waco last season, has appeared in several exhibition games for the Cards, [illegible] manager, is sweet on George Bretsch, local amateur, whom he saw box in New York recently. He manages Herman Foltins, a former local amateur, and Sandy Seifert, North Side heavyweight.

MASON RETURNS SOON

James (Red) Mason, local manager of boxers, writes from Hot Springs, Ark., that he will be back home in a couple of weeks and will prep a couple of his mit-slingers to go after Buck McTiernan, who is more or less in the limelight these days. He also plans to send his Dominick Profio after Tiger Joe Randall again, to even up for the defeat the Tiger handed Profio recently in the Moose Temple arena.

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple, has matched Johnny Vilvig, the welterweight, of Bloomfield, to box Jackie Murray, clever Negro, of the Hill, in the semi-final to his Tiger Joe Randall-Young Rudy battle next Friday night. He has Willie Davies and Jackie Rodgers signed for his windup next week and may use Rodgers with Dan Billick in a return bout April 26.

Jim McGirr, the McKeesport promoter, is at work today on his preliminaries for his double windup bill Thursday night featuring Battling Gizzy against Chet Smallwood, of Akron, and Phil Scello against Bobby Green, of Memphis.

Confidentially

Fans who went to Miami Beach and Chicago to see fights should have gone to Curry on Saturday instead, and they would have seen a real battle after the soccer game.

"You had a bad season last year—how about signing for this year?" That's the message Barney Dreyfuss is said to have sent Paul Waner at his home in Oklahoma. In other words, "We don't need you, but come a-runnin'."

Pyle can't complain because his trained seals are running out on him.

A certain local paper has used the photograph of Mike O'Dowd, the old middleweight champion, for Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Columbus, the bantamweight, each of the two times the latter has appeared here. Heh, heh!

Story from Tijuana says promoter there is bidding for a 45-round fight between Tommy Loughran and Mickey Walker. Probably a mistake. It should have read "Kidding."

Fred Fussell doesn't know whether he'd rather run afoul of Manager Donie Bush or the Jones law.

PROS RETURN TO DISTRICT GOLF CLUBS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

Don't let anyone kid you into thinking that your club has been thrown wide open, that the regular greens are ready and playable, or that the layout has lost its spring sogginess—for today, while it is the unofficial opening of the golf season, as marked by the return of the club professional to his job, also is All Fools' Day, and it would be very advisable to certify as to course conditions at said club before venturing forth to brave the uncertain elements of this watery month.

True enough, several clubs have opened and are playing on their regular greens, but the majority of greenkeepers and chairmen of green committees have decided to let the boys play on temporary putting surfaces if they must play, while a number of clubs have found their courses in either delicate or soggy, uncertain condition they have found it advisable to keep the gang from ruining the turf for a couple of weeks anyway, by closing them entirely.

FEW CHANGES

The season's lineup of professionals, with only one or two possible changes, will be as follows:

Dave McKay, Pittsburgh Field Club; Charley Rowe, Oakmont Country Club; Jock Kennedy, Fox Chapel Golf Club; Pete O'Hara, Westmoreland Country Club; George Underwood, Alcoma Country Club; George McBride, Country Club of Pittsburgh.

Jack Stewart, Thornburg Country Club; Fred Brand, Allegheny Country Club; Fred Loeffler, Ellwood City Country Club; Dale Zimmerman, Chartiers Heights Country Club; Tom Gray, Ambridge Country Club; Vincent Eldred, Highland Country Club; Charley Manning, Shannopin Country Club.

Tom Bennett, Youghiogheny Country Club; Fred Robinson, Hill Crest Country Club; George Schmidt, Conneaut Lake Country Club; Eddie Melvin, Tanango Country Club; Horace Brand, Uniontown Country Club; Jimmy Devlin, Nemacolin Country Club; Clarence Shakespeare, Washington County Golf and Country Club; Walter Johnstone, Butler Country Club; George Swanke, Sharon Country Club.

Dave McCormick, St. Clair Country Club; Walter Loeffler, South Hills Country Club; Billy Kane, Riverside Golf Club, Cambridge Springs; Ken Stewart, Latrobe Country Club; Harry Keiller, Monongahela Valley Country Club; Jim Bathie, Green County Country Club, Waynesburg.

PERRY ON JOB

Walter Andrews, Beaver Valley Country Club; Cecil Barber, Montour Heights Country Club; Jim Morrison, Pleasant Valley Country Club; Perry Delvicchio, Greensburg Country Club; Wes Walthour, Hannastown Country Club, Greensburg; Capt. Vernon Arthur Smith, New Castle Field Club; Bill McKay, Longue Vue Club; Al McBride, Schenley Park.

Jimmy O'Donnell, Edgewood Country Club; Jim Noble, Burke Glen; Dave Clarke, Castle Shannon Golf Club, and Peter Walsh, Greenville Country Club.

There are three clubs which have not announced their instructor for this season; of the trio, one is certain to have a new pro. They are Pup's Foot Country Club, near Edgewood, which lost George Schmidt; Oakland Beach course at Conneaut Lake, where Billy Weir is said to have resigned last year, and Brackenridge Heights Golf Club, near Tarentum.

Soon enough, now, we will be learning of the official opening dates for district clubs, usually around May 1, on which occasion real celebrations are carded. And then the season will be officially opened.

HUGGINS TRIES LARY AT THIRD

PENSACOLA, Fla., April 1.—(AP.)—Miller Huggins, the master mind of the Yankees, has decided to make another change in his infield. Lyn Lary, expensive California recruit, who lost to Durocher in the contest for the shortstop job, will get a chance at Mark Koenig's third-base post.

Andy Martin vs. Midget Mike O'Dowd, 10 rounds; Terry Lingo vs. Frankie Stellmack, 8 rounds; Buck McTiernan vs. Mickey Solmen, 6 rounds, and Bob Concrete vs. Bob Krape and Al Iovine vs. Georgie Tomosky, 4 rounds each, Motor Square Garden.

Severe Drop Hasn't Ended, Dangers, Forbes Believes.

By B. C. FORBES

SAGES tell us that every life, every organ, always is moving towards a crisis, either good or bad. It was not difficult to foresee that Wall Street was reeling towards a crisis of the unpleasant kind.

Timely — and praiseworthy — banking support at a very critical moment averted what threatened to become a panic.

The sudden, swift, vigorous rally was impressive. But, taking monetary, political and speculative conditions into consideration, it would be rash, in the writer's opinion, to conclude that all trouble is past and that serenity and constantly rising prices lie ahead.

JUST how severe was last week's collapse?

The average loss suffered by representative industrial stocks between March 21 and March 26, was $38 a share.

This table shows how far 45 representative issues fell from their best prices of the year:

Stock.	High.	Low.	Decline
Adams Express	600	525	75

THESE are not light losses. Sudden drops of $40 to almost $100 a share tend to shake even strong margins. Certain low-priced issues lost more than half their previous value, so that even 50 per cent margins in these cases would have been wiped out.

"BUT the market in two days recovered all its losses and in some cases more," has been gally declared. It hasn't. Industrials ended the month fully 11 points below their March 18 top. Of the stocks given in the foregoing table only the following recovered more than 15 points:

Stock.	From Low
General Electric	19
Electric Auto Lite	23
Greene Cananea	22
National Cash Register	16
Radio	24
Byers (A. M.)	22

THAT the quoted value of American stocks should shrink in value several billions of dollars within the space of 48 hours was serious enough in itself—especially for the many speculators on margin who were sold out. But recent happenings in stock markets have carried much graver danger. The abuse of the money market by speculators not only raised interest rates exacted from business and all other borrowers, thus tending to discourage building and other forms of enterprise, but it inevitably incited attacks upon our whole Federal Reserve currency system, and nobody can foretell what effect coming events in Congress may have upon national prosperity and employment. Therein lies the worst danger.

SOME excitedly demand that the Federal Reserve Board be hanged, drawn and quartered. Others blame entirely "stock market gamblers." Charles E. Mitchell, whose courageous, independent action in making money available—at a price—when a crisis appeared imminent, is extolled as a hero by some and branded by others as a villain bent upon defying the Federal Reserve Board and wrecking all its plans. Already we are being treated to heated statements by senators eager to punish "Wall Street," forgetting, perhaps, that "Wall Street" and other stock markets represent the activities, not of a handful of gamblers, but many millions of security owners all over the land.

All this portends unsettled happenings in Congress.

Are Stocks again a purchase?

Previous sharp slumps, as last June, again in December, have been each followed by strong advances and new high prices.

This time, however, are conditions different—inflated credits and weak technical position—so that, outside of mere rallies, lower prices will be seen? Or are stocks again a purchase, now?

Our latest market report gives a sound, conservative analysis, also covers these stocks, whether to—

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Tumble

Local Stock Quotations

MARKET, FACED WITH INQUIRY, TUMBLES

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP.)—Faced with the prospect of a congressional investigation into stock speculation and higher Federal Reserve rediscount rates, the stock market today experienced another sharp reaction which carried scores of issues down 3 to 22½ points. A rally, which developed just before midday, was checked when the call money rate was advanced from 10 to 12 and later to 15 per cent.

Unfavorable credit developments over the three-day holiday brought a flood of selling orders into the market at the opening, the initial losses ranging from 1 to nearly 10 points. These were extended later when it became apparent that much of the buying support in evidence last week had been withdrawn and that several of the large pools were liquidating their holdings.

NEWS FAVORABLE

Fears that general business would be hurt by recent developments in credit and market conditions inspired much of the day's liquidation. The day's trade news, however, continued favorable. Montgomery-Ward and Sears-Roebuck reported record - breaking March sales, as did some of the automobile companies, notably Chevrolet. Magma and Inspiration copper companies published excellent 1928 earnings reports. Reports from the steel centers indicated that production was being maintained at high levels.

International Telephone, which soared upward while the rest of the market was slipping last week, broke 22½ points on the announcement over the week-end that no actual agreement had been signed for the acquisition of RCA communications, but that there had been merely an accord of the desirability of the consolidation when the law permits. Radio broke 11 points to 95½ but snapped back above par, and International Telephone rebounded 10 points from its early low.

BREAKS WIDE

Wright Aeronautical broke 13 points, Greene Cananea Copper, 12; Electric Auto Lite, 11½; General Electric, 10½; A. M. Byers, 10, and Packard Motors, American Telephone, Stewart Warner, Anaconda, American Smelting, Atlantic Refining, Curtiss, Goodyear, Johns Manville, National Cash Register, Advance Rumely and Allied Chemical were among the issues to fall 7 to 9¼ points. United States Steel common fell 6 points.

Rails yielded with the industrials, Canadian Pacific dropping 6 points and New York Central 5.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 1.—Wheat values underwent a decided setback early today, influenced by rain and snow in domestic wheat territory and also by stock market weakness. Monthly unofficial crop estimates issued today were about as expected, being approximately the same as the 10-year average. Opening ½c to ⅞c lower, wheat afterward showed a material further drop. Corn and oats were also easier, with corn starting unchanged to ¼c off and later sagging all around. Provisions inclined upward.

Aside from bearish weather and stock market developments today wheat traders manifested chief interest in April 1 crop estimates by leading private authorities here. A typical summary of these unofficial reports said present indications were that the domestic winter wheat crop passed through the winter with even less than average damage, and at this time promised a yield of about 565,000,000 bushels; in much of the southwest the crop was backward, but that drawback was fairly balanced by more than usual sub-soil moisture in that region.

On the other hand, with spring wheat seeding going on in the northwest, and soon to begin in Canada, the drought situation in the Canadian prairie provinces became more alarming, and unless rains intervened soon, will be bad for the start of the crop. If the rains come in seeding time they may cause delay to such an extent as to result in more than usual fears of frost damage later.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP.)—Cotton opened steady today at unchanged prices to a decline of 6 points. Active months sold about 13 to 17 points net lower in the early trading under local and southern selling. This seemed to be influenced by a favorable view of weather conditions over the holidays, but houses with European connections were a moderate buyer. There also was considerable covering and prices steadied up 2 or 3 points from the lowest by the end of the first half hour.

July contracts sold off to 20.04 and rallied to 20.07. Trading was comparatively quiet. Owing to Easter holidays, Liverpool was closed today but will reopen tomorrow.

There was a little more trade buying and covering as prices worked off, but selling continued. The market worked down to 20.45c for May and 19.85c for October late in the forenoon, or 50 to 54 points up from the lowest on covering.

PENNSY INCOME GAINS DESPITE REVENUE DROP

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

INCREASED operating efficiency on the Pennsylvania Railroad has been overcoming the obstacles of declining revenues due to the greater use of automobiles for both passenger and freight traffic. All classes of railway operating revenues except the hauling of mail continued to drop sharply last year but in spite of this, net income after all charges was increased $14,347,317. This gain was practically equal to the amount lost in gross revenues during the year.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company reported net income of $14,347,317 for 1928. This was equivalent to $7.37 a share on the capital stock of $50 par value compared with $6.82 a share in 1927. The gain in share earnings was achieved after increasing the number of shares by 1,248,165 during the year to a total of 11,233,479 shares. The offering of rights to stockholders to buy one new share for $50 for each eight shares held accounted for the larger capitalization.

SINCE the termination of government control, the company has made uninterrupted progress in lowering the cost of transportation. This has been done without allowing the condition of either road or equipment to be neglected. Quite the contrary has been the case since enormous expenditures have been made for permanent improvements. These, however, were new capital investments and not charges against operations.

The gain in operating efficiency can be seen in the fact that the operating ratio of the entire Pennsylvania system has steadily declined for the past eight years. This ratio is the percentage of gross operating revenues used to pay operating expenses. In 1921 the ratio was 87.6 per cent. Last year it fell to 73.8 per cent. Compared with 1927 the ratio dropped 3.1 points. Each 1 per cent reduction is equal to a saving of between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 a year.

LAST year's ratio was the lowest since 1916 and was lower than either 1913 or 1914. The improvement was brought about through the consolidation of trains, shops, offices and departments. Every train, every car, every locomotive was made to do more work than in the past by speeding up its operation and by keeping it moving more hours each day. The result was that the number of tons of freight hauled one mile in each hour of train operation increased 45.2 per cent between 1921 and 1928.

The road still has some progress to make before it will need to worry about the recapture provisions of the transportation act. The net railway operating income for 1928 was equal to only 5.11 per cent on the investment in road equipment so that the company is not yet earning the return to which the government has decided it is entitled.

ALTHOUGH non-operating income increased $1,298,662 during the year, practically all of the growth in earnings was secured from actual railroad activities. The increase in non-operating income, which consists chiefly of dividends and interest received from securities owned, was partly due to the 4 per cent dividend on the stock of the Long Island Railroad, the first paid by that company since 1896. The purchase of additional holdings in the stocks of other companies also contributed to the growth of this class of revenue.

The extent of work being done for the rehabilitation of the road is demonstrated by the fact that expenditures on both the line and equipment in 1928 total $46,000,000. In addition to this the company made a total reduction of $33,358,984 in its funded debt and other fixed indebtedness.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 1—(AP.)—Prices fell away rapidly on the Curb Market today, under the accumulation over the three-day holiday of a large volume of selling orders, prompted by the continued uncertainties in the credit situation.

Ford of Canada, as usual of late, moved over a wide range, falling from 1120 to 1030. Deere dropped 24 points to 570 before midday. Goldman Sachs Trading lost 8 points, and United Aircraft 5.

Oil shares showed resistance in spots to the wave of selling. Humble was firm and Imperial held steady. Gulf, however, dropped 7 points and Indiana yielded 2 points.

With the exception of American Light and Traction, which advanced more than 3 points, utilities were conspicuously weak. United Gas Improvement sold off 8 points, and Electric Bond and Shares and Electric Investors more than 6.

In the mines, Newmont was again weak, losing 7 points.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column and stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

RESERVE HEADS IN SESSION

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP.)—The violent fluctuations of the New York stock market continued today to be a subject of interest in Washington, but officials of the government and those on Capitol Hill mainly were cautious in their comment on the situation.

Governors of the 12 Federal Reserve banks opened their semi-annual three days' session with the announcement that there had been no arrangement for a joint meeting with the Federal Reserve Board itself. There was no comment from any of them on reports of a division of opinion over methods of curtailing the speculative trend of the market.

Some members of the board, however, say that much of the cause of the trouble in which the board finds itself in dealing with the money market has arisen because the board has asserted the right to dictate rediscount rates.

It was indicated that the board would not act upon the suggestion of Senator Glass, of Virginia, that Charles E. Mitchell, of New York, be asked to resign as a director of the New York Reserve Bank for his action in supplying $25,000,000 to the market when the call loan rate shot up to 20 per cent last week.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Stocks Crash Again

Stocks crashed again today in the expected secondary reaction, a usual aftermath of such spectacles as that witnessed on the exchange last week. Call money tightened noticeably and, after opening at 10 per cent, advanced steadily until well along in the afternoon when it reached 15. Selling orders accumulated over the week-end and there was little in the news to stimulate a resumption of the bullish recovery which jerked the market upward after its drastic slump last Monday and Tuesday. Sentiment was further depressed by accentuation of National City Bank's attitude favoring a raise in the re-discount rate. There was nothing new in this news for persons in close touch with the banking opinion of New York as the National City had stressed the fact that credit strings were overdrawn. However, the bank's action last week in supplying call money to prevent disaster in the stock market must have conveyed the impression that the institution was in favor of free and easy money and rising prices in the stock market, an assumption far from correct. That the bank should act to prevent a financial debacle such as threatened last week does not place it in the category of favoring indiscriminate speculation, but its real position in respect to the market, more thoroughly disseminated today, apparently proved a disappointment to some traders who thought they were riding a rally with the biggest bank in the Street.

Durant Seeks Opinions.

W. C. Durant has addressed a telegram to 100 representatives and executives of industrial, railroad and public utility companies in which he says:—"At a time when the banking reserves of the country are in no way threatened, the Federal Reserve Board by questioning the right of bankers to loan on stock exchange collateral is giving the public the impression that our best securities are selling above their value. It is my belief that the attitude of the board, the method of handling and the thoughtless character of the publicity are most harmful to our business interests and are threatening the prosperity of the country. With my assurance that information will not be used for speculative purposes and that no public reference direct or indirect will be made to your response without your consent, would you be willing to give a 'yes or no' answer as to whether, based on present conditions prospects and plans for the future, you think the present market price for the securities of your company is too high?"

Thinks Crisis Passed.

An argument for a 6 per cent Federal Reserve rediscount rate, an advance of 1 per cent, is made in the April review of economic conditions of the National City Bank, of which Charles E. Mitchell is president. The review also asserts that the National City Bank indorses the desire of the Federal Reserve authorities to restrain excessive credit expansion for over-speculation, and in retracing the recent course of the call money market, says that "the crisis has passed and the incident is a closed book." Senator Carter Glass of Virginia and others in Washington recently demanded that the reserve board request Mr. Mitchell's resignation as a director of the New York Federal Reserve Bank because of his offer to lend $5,000,000 to the stock market last week after the break in prices.

Stocks Affect Copper Market

Copper buying was moderate in the domestic market today and nil abroad, owing to the holiday on the other side. The situation continues strongly in favor of the producer. Prices are firm and may even show further advance when buying is resumed later in the month. The probability is that copper buying will be moderate until the stock market has established a definite trend again.

Hint Credit Institute.

A New York Exchange firm says—"It would seem probable that any measures which would be definitely taken to cut down credits needs by the stock market would in all probability result in the formation of a credit institution, formed for the purpose of loaning money on call to the full extent of its resources, and not with reserve limitations as is the case with the banks today. Furthermore it would be our guess that many banks now in the Federal Reserve system would withdraw."

Superior Steel Strong.

One of the outstanding features of the New York Stock Market today was Superior Steel, which sold at 59½, the highest price on record. Buying is based upon earnings which are stated to be running at the rate of $10 a year and also upon favorable results of the new process called "rustless iron products" now being made by the company. Orders have already been received from Radio Corporation of America, the Victor Talking Machine Company and other concerns. These orders are for copper sheets, something new in the trade. It is a combination of 40 per cent copper and 60 per cent iron ore and is made by a patented process for which Superior Steel has exclusive rights. Superior is a local company with plants at Carnegie.

BUGS BAER Says

NIGHT CAPS AND TRENCH HELMETS

"Bugs" Baer

EVERYBODY seems saturated with indignation because the United States Navy nipped a rum blossom in the bud.

The schooner I'm Alone, loaded with a cargo of headaches, sank off New Orleans from the effects of a government insomnia tablet.

Now all the world is round with anger because we won a naval victory.

We don't even get credit for marksmanship.

It's the I'm Alone's own fault. What was she doing fooling around New Orleans when we need it more in Los Angeles and New York?

All that was left of the I'm Alone was a message in a bottle.

After reading it, our War Department cabled back:

"Thanks. Send the next message in a barrel."

The name of the I'm Alone rouses a suspicion that the entire incident is a plug for a new song by Irving Berlin.

England lost a boat but can claim an immoral victory.

Before sinking, the I'm Alone landed her cargo.

The U. S. chased the incubator after the eggs had escaped.

The feeling in England is not bitter. There are no bitters over here either.

The sinking of the I'm Alone is a blow to history. It destroys a valuable link between us and the past.

Now that the coast guard has tightened up on its regulations they are liable to shoot a drowning man for clinging to a wet plank.

Perry, on Lake Erie, which is another good route from Canada, said:

"Don't give up the ship—until it's empty."

Hobson scuttled the Merrimac and wired back:

"We have bottled up the Spaniards."

His answer was the historic congratulatory rebuke:

"Don't bother bottling the Spaniards. Bottle up the Scotch."

You can see that history is a radish that repeats itself. Men must work and women must weep though the harbor bartender be moaning.

How Rev. Styles Silenced Child

The following story is told of the Rev. Dr. Styles, of Boston (1786). A little girl had asked the learned divine to preach a sermon against throwing litter into the streets. He replied in part—

"Mind Number One, by sweeping in front of your door. Mind your own business and mend your own manners. Then the cobbler's wife will never go barefooted and the baker's child get no buns. Some people have not sense enough to keep their own kettle from boiling over. The meddlesome man will not darn his own socks because he has left his needle in his cousin's socks. Yet he struts like a crow in a gutter."

There's but one wise man in the world,
And who d'ye think it be?
'Tis this man, that man, t'other man,
Every man thinks 'tis he.

"Let every cat clean its own fur. Boil your own potatoes and let me bake mine."

Plots to Defeat Law Too Much in Evidence

Hearing of a number of defendants arrested in raids, in which bogus revenue stamps and counterfeit seals and labels of well known liquor brands were seized, was postponed because a witness, who had been arrested and released on bond of $1,000, did not appear. Police suspect that he was advised not to show up.

If that shall prove to be true it will constitute further evidence of extreme liberty that persons associated with the "racket" in Pittsburgh take with the law. Recent trials in federal and county courts have had to contend with evasion and perjury by witnesses and, in the case of Slot King Forney, with jumping of bail by the defendant.

Forney had the impudence to present to the court a certificate of illness, which investigation disclosed was untrue. Recently in Chicago "Scarface Al" Capone tried the same dodge, with the result that the Federal Court held him in $5,000 bail to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court.

What about the doctors who signed the certificates for Capone and Forney? What about the persons who cause witnesses to fail to appear at trials and hearings or to commit perjury in testifying? They are all part of conspiracies to make the law impotent and should be severely dealt with. It appears to be too serious a matter to be merely ignored.

Government Approves Plans for Ohio Bridge

A matter of public gratification is the announcement of approval of the War Department given to plans for the proposed North Side-McKees Rocks bridge across the Ohio River. A few minor changes were made in the plans of the county engineers for the structure, for which is apportioned $6,885,000 of the $43,000,000 bond issue authorized by the voters last June. This gives the final government permission for an important improvement, which will join two sides of the river besides being an element of the proposed Ohio River boulevard on the North Side.

The completion of such an enormous structure, the length of which is to be 6,500 feet, or just short of a mile and a quarter, of course, is a long time in the future, while the need for it now is pressing. This indicates how difficult it is for us to keep up with the demands of our rapid physical growth. To spend nearly $7,000,000 for one bridge is no small thing, and is proof that every year we are doing big things in a bigger way.

Cowardice—Dangerous to All

The Timid Holdup Men.

The most dangerous quality in man is cowardice. It ruins him and ruins others. Cowardice causes crime. Some are too cowardly to work, too cowardly to endure a hardship. And as criminals they are so cowardly that they kill from FEAR, thus causing their own death if caught.

Watch in any courtroom criminals coming up for sentence. You see undersized, timid, miserable creatures, shrunken in mind and body. No man need fear them, except that they come armed and with deadly weapons and use them through fear.

A grocer, about to lock up for the night, saw two very young men enter his shop, while a third stood at the doorway. When they approached him, they shook and their mouths twitched so that they could not speak. The grocer, in his dying statement, later said he suspected the youths intended to be bandits, but he was AMUSED at their evident cowardice.

He did not know how deadly cowardice could be. For when he asked roughly, "Well, what do you want?" the boy at the door, the "lookout," fired his revolver three times, at the risk of killing his fellow bandits, then all three fled. And the grocer is dead, killed by cowardice that pulled the trigger.

The disease that breeds in the slums threatens the children in the fine house on the hill.

The cowardice bred in half-fed, half-starved bodies and ignorant brains, threatens the prosperity that says, "I am not my brother's keeper." Make better, stronger, braver human beings, and you will have a safer world to live in.

What Of It?

We Have the Money and Want Safety.

Senator King, of Utah, says he "challenges attention to militarism in the United States." He thinks our army and navy outlay are "the largest in the world."

Possibly they are. We pay our men in dollars instead of French sous. Prices are higher here, and such a sum as $800,000,000 for army and navy expense does sound appalling.

But in numbers our army is as nothing compared with the armies of France, Russia, or even little Poland. Our fighting air force is absolutely contemptible compared with the fighting force of France, Great Britain or Italy.

We SPEND more, we always DO, but we haven't GOT more.

"We have no foes," says Senator King. We have what is worse. Powerful nations that owe us billions of dollars each, that envy our gold supply and our prosperity, and would like to take both.

When the Persian's king fleet had been destroyed by little Greece he asked what and where that country was, and told the Royal Remembrancer: "Remind me to go and destroy that country some time."

But a later Persian ruler came down from the golden throne, rigged up behind his line of fighting elephants, fled, was overtaken and slain.

He knew how little fighting elephants amounted to against Alexander the Great, the Macedonian. We shall know some day how little sixty million dollar battleships amount to against flying machines.

Tales That Are Told

Not Nice

ON returning from Sunday school Harold was asked by his sister what he had learned.

The lesson was the story of Joseph, and Harold was evidently full of his subject.

"Oh," he said, "it was about a boy, and his brothers took him out and put him in a hole in the ground; and then they killed another boy, and took the boy's coat and dipped it in the blood of this boy, and——"

"Oh, no, Harold, not another boy!" But Harold stood his ground.

"It was," he insisted. "I know the teacher said 'kid,' but I don't use words like that."

Caught!

JONES, waiting for a train, looked about for something interesting. He noticed an automatic machine and inserted a penny.

"I have often wondered," he remarked, "where the profit on these machines——"

Here he grasped the handle with a firm and masterful grip.

"Where the profit on these affairs——" He shook vigorously.

"Hang the thing!" He turned red. At last a porter came up and explained that it was out of order—then Jones realized at last where the profit came from.

Hardened

IT TOOK the rescuers half an hour to clear away the mass of stones from the unfortunate man on whom the wall had fallen, and they had no expectation of finding him other than crushed flat.

To their amazement, he rose to his feet and asked for a clothes-brush.

"Aren't you crushed?" asked one onlooker.

"Not likely," said he, with a smile. "I go through worse every evening. I teach dancing at a night club."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

WOMEN say certain kinds of smart cracks about other women, but the men have a different slant. It would make the best book in the world if you could just get together all the things that women say to their husbands about the cuties they meet when they're out together. It would be quite a big book, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Slings was walking along Main street and they met Mrs. Smart. She was a neighbor, and kinda young and good-looking.

So he says, "She dresses right nifty, don't you think?"

"You think so?" she says. "That's an installment-store dress she's got on now."

"Installment, hey? I reckon that's the first installment of it she's got on now.

"Do the installments get smaller as you go along?"

THE SCIENTIST

By Garrett P. Serviss

"SCIENTIST" is a disagreeable word, but it seems to be needed, for "savant" doesn't exactly fit the case, beside being stilted. The scientist, then, has become a great object of human curiosity independent of his science. He is a modern product of mental evolution. Our fathers and grandfathers knew no scientists, only philosophers. Even when we of the passing generation were children the science of nature and her laws was "natural philosophy." And for the majority it was more interesting than its successor, "physics," is today. The scientists now, with their case-hardened mathematical tools, have tunneled themselves out of the popular view. They can no longer be seen, like the philosophers of old, panning the gold of new discoveries from sunshiny placers. Sir Humphrey Davy still called himself "philosopher," and John Tyndall did not disdain the name. The public loved them—and that is an affection which modern scientists come out of their holes to envy.

But when the modern scientist emerges and wanders in sight he brings with him a sort of atmosphere which casts a glamour over the common sense of the upper world. How curiously he regards things. Is he a gnome from underground, or an embodied spirit from above? Evidently the world does not look the same to his as to vulgar eyes. Those who notice his abstracted air catch a little of his point of view, as if looking through his lenses.

He glances up at a mountain range and observes, suspended in the sky, a fragment of the bottom of an ancient sea, five thousand feet thick, of hardened rock; and he knows the names of the creatures that lived in its vanished waters and played over its pebbly bottom as it was being deposited in rippled shadows under the Pliocene sunshine. A man-made dam, a machine-bored tunnel—what trifles to his mind's vision that has beheld nature making Alps and Rockies, Andes and Himalayas!

He looks at the amazing spectacle of the starry heavens, but a star is no mere sparkle of light to his sight. He reads its history in its scintillating rays. Their vibrations are as letters, syllables, and words to him. He has deciphered their hieroglyphics in his laboratory, and discovered the meaning. Great Betelguese is a bubble-sun; iris—flashing Sirius is companioned by a monster dwarf whose gravitative power is so prodigious that it represents a mass weighing a ton per cubic inch! He sees it gripping the Dog Star as the Old Man of the Sea locked his spindle legs around Sinbad's neck. His scientific vision takes in the "pulsing stars," which alternately swell and contract like the soap bubbles that hang from the bowl of a boy's play pipe. To think that these bullfrog stars may be the future fathers of planet families! Some of them are many millions of miles in diameter.

Where the common eye sees only an unusual glow in the Milky Way, this scientist beholds the central metropolis of the universe, where suns seem to be crowded like houses. Where the common eye sees nothing, he photographs indescribable wonders.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

FOR the protection of animals, $8,301,480.

For the study of bugs, $2,038,200.

For the service of children and mothers, $1,000,000.

That is our federal government's estimate of the relative value of Bugs and American Babies. And, with the expiration of the Sheppard-Towner Act on June 30, 1929, even that small subsidy will cease.

Millions for bugs, nothing for babies—that is the vote which America will presently chalk up on the annals of history.

AND IT WILL CAST THAT VOTE IN THE FACE OF THE FACT THAT AMERICA HAS THE LARGEST DEATH RATE AMONG MOTHERS AND BABIES OF ANY CIVILIZED COUNTRY IN THE WORLD.

There are more than two million pregnant women in the United States, distributed over 3,026,789 square miles. Every year more than 20,000 women die from causes due to childbirth—one mother for every 150 babies born.

These mothers do not die from rare, unpreventable accidents. They die from ignorance and neglect which a very little trained service might have prevented.

Here is an extract from an article by Hazel Corbin, R. N., in The Survey:

"Some states require only that a doctor shall see six babies born in order to qualify for a license which permits him to care for any obstetrical patient, no matter what the complications.

"Of the 20,000 nurses who will receive diplomas from hospital training schools this year, according to Dr. May Ayres Burgess, 10,000 are not eligible for jobs as salesgirls in an enterprising department store because they have not the educational requirements. Yet they will be absorbed into the nursing profession and a share of them will be doing the country's maternity nursing, for they are meeting the educational requirements of their states.

"There are, caring for our mothers, midwives so ignorant and superstitious as to suppose hemorrhage can be controlled by placing an axe upside down under the patient's bed. Of about 50,000 practicing midwives only a small proportion are well trained and the majority are untrained—yet, in most instances, they are licensed or registered by their states."

Midwives ministering to the "poor whites" and colored people of the South "cure" bowed legs in infants by driving a nail through the shell of a live turtle and dripping the warm blood down the child's back and legs, and "heal" rupture by sprinkling "cunjer powder" on a dishrag stolen in the dark of the moon, said dishrag being then applied over the rupture. Which is an ample commentary on the progressiveness of these states which license such nurses.

YET FEDERAL SUBSIDY FOR THE PROTECTION OF MOTHERS AND CHILDREN IS BEING DEFEATED ON THE GROUNDS THAT IT VIOLATES STATES' RIGHTS.

The Sheppard-Towner Act was an attempt on the part of the Federal Government to teach the adequate care of mothers and babies. It worked on a very limited subsidy but through the devotion of those enrolled in its ranks, gave splendid service.

With June 30, 1929, this act will expire, defeated on the ground stated. The Newton bill has been proposed to take its place and carry on the work already started. What are its chances of passing? Slim! At present it looks as if the richest, proudest, most intelligent nation on earth would still continue to spend millions on bugs but not a nickel on babies.

Bible Passages

Obedience

(Proverbs 4: 1-13)

HEAR, ye children, the instruction of a father, and attend to know understanding.

For I give good doctrine, forsake ye not my law.

For I was my father's son, tender and only beloved in the sight of my mother.

He taught me also, and said unto me, Let thine heart retain my words: keep my commandments, and live.

Get wisdom, get understanding: forget it not; neither decline from the words of my mouth.

Forsake her not, and she shall preserve thee; love her, and she shall keep thee.

Wisdom is the principal thing: therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding.

Exalt her, and she shall promote thee: she shall bring thee to honour, when thou dost embrace her.

She shall give to thine head an ornament of grace: a crown of glory shall she deliver to thee.

Hear, O my son, and receive my sayings; and the years of thy life shall be many.

I have taught thee in the way of wisdom; I have led thee in right paths.

When thou goest, thy steps shall not be straightened; and when thou runnest, thou shalt not stumble.

Take fast hold of instruction; let her not go: keep her; for she is thy life.

Star Sapphire

As dark as Summer's midnight sky,
Blue depths of matchless splendor,
And far within, as there on high,
A star, serene and tender!

No casual glance reveals its gleam;
But, seeking, one may find it,
A white star, touching with its beam
The velvet deeps behind it.

Love could not bring a gift more meet
To grace a slender finger,
O star, whose message there would greet
Dear eyes where joy would linger!

A gift more meet, love could not bring,
For in your gaze beguiling
I find again the gems I sing.
Blue deeps where stars are smiling!

The High Hand

By Herbert Kaufman

THE Michigan State Senate, taking cue from "The Mikado's" famous song, now repents the life-for-a-pint-law and "makes the punishment fit the crime."

The Senate of the United States, which so recently clinked glasses and downed whisky at its own private bar, will also, in due time, realize that the reprisals in the Jones Act are out of all proportion to the offenses with which it deals.

Even a fair-minded teetotaler must blush for democracy when "the greatest deliberative body on earth" ranks the sale of one drink or possession of a hip flask with major felonies, and designates such penalties for transporting a bottle of ale as are customarily inflicted on felonious assault and mayhem, manslaughter and forgery, rape and kidnaping, defalcation and seduction.

If justice falsifies statutory weights and measures with cheating scales, public conscience must protest and repudiate the meretricious transaction.

Prohibition is not worth its moral or economic price if it must be consummated through terror tyranny and toadyism.

The country begins to suspect that Congress no longer obeys personal conviction but has become the intimidated lick-spittle of a lobbying minority, which increasingly demonstrates power to elect or demote state and federal officials by casting decisive block votes accordingly as candidates support its arbitrary program.

We are threatened with an invisible government with no purpose except the complete desiccation of these United States.

The Capitol is invested with zealots who would give the Eighteenth Amendment the sanctity of an Eleventh Commandment.

They have canonized an alcoholic formula, and set the brand of Judas upon all opinion that dares challenge the judgment of Saint Volstead's judicial committee.

They have flung the banner of Saint Louis from Anti-saloon League Headquarters and summoned the ghosts of Coligny and Guise, Roundhead and Cavalier, Torquemada and the Grand Inquisitors to a united concert of bigotry and a common crusade against non-conformists.

The spirit of Titus Oates, the specter of Cotton Mather, the shibboleths of witch-smelling and the whispers of hired informers haunt the shadows and infect the clean breath of freedom.

Fanaticism has invoked sectarianism to seize the political theater and re-stage religious feuds Constitutionally and specifically banned from this Republic. Hysteriacs would callously burn the house and destroys the whole structure of Liberty to exterminate a few untrapped vermin.

They would banish the "quality of mercy" from courtroom and community heart, multiply taxes, crowd the land with penitentiaries and crowd the penitentiaries with "lifers"—to serve rabid hatred of a suddenly outlawed habit, which for generations, centuries and ages was a social acceptance and a daily indulgence of prelate, statesman and the Supreme Bench, itself.

But a traditional right cannot overnight be translated into a repulsive crime, nor human nature choked or bludgeoned into evolution.

National sentiment is overwhelmingly for Prohibition but if Prohibition may only be enforced through persecution and the cringing surrender of legislative independence, then let's choose the lesser of two evils, and wipe the Eighteenth Amendment from the Constitution.

Immoderation spites itself. A cause deaf to compromise invites defeat. Whole-hog-or-none high-handedness never brings home the bacon.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 1.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Early up and a pleasant note from Billy Sunday and to see Charles and Kathleen Norris at the Chatham. Thence with my wife to the station to welcome home from Florida my mother-in-law, a young lady of 73.

Home and read over an essay I considered at the time it was written four months ago the most amusing I ever wrote, yet was so witless it went into the waste basket. So to walk about town with Floyd Gibbons, the war correspondent, and we saw a whittler in a doorway on Broadway.

In the evening to the Lee Olwells for dinner and Amon Carter, the Texas publisher, and Nanette there. And Amon told of days when he sold crayon pictures from door to door and recited his canvassing address, which would make the most hilarious movietone monologue I know. So home late.

Newspaper writers, being human or slightly so, enjoy little flatteries and respond to them. There is an only tolerably fair actor who seems to receive more than his meed of praise from theatrical scribblers. His performance is largely impromptu and he has a habit of singling out this writer and that for a verbal bouquet. It has proved profitable.

Now that Anita Loos has pulled a James Joseph Tunney with the announcement she will write no more scenarios or books, it is whispered four novelists and a short story writer are singing the literary swan song this fall to settle in Europe to loaf. They just think they will. It is a custom when success arrives for a writer to "grow tired of it all." As a rule he's just showing off. Silly things, writers!

The majestic sweep of that smart business section eastward is emphasized by the aristocratic tone suddenly coming to Lexington avenue. For years it was a shabby thoroughfare, but when Madison and Park avenue perked up, Lexington began to stir. Today it bristles with the glitter of swank hotels, skyscraper office buildings and classy shops, and real estate optimists say in another 10 years Avenue A, a slum section, will be just as hotsy-totsy.

Morris Gest introduced another "celebrity curtain" at his Chauve Souris show this season. The drop had caricatures by Ralph Barton of those Mr. Gest considered important. It was noticeable most of them were dramatic critics, newspaper columnists and such literary scum and we'll wager a becoming penny the producer will suffer no publicity slights for his kind thought. The new Chauve Souris sandwich, by the way, featured in delicatessens, is described as "much ham and a little Russian dressing."

A fad of the moment is tinting the telephone in exotic shades—pink, heliotrope, mauve and so on. One of the stories going the rounds—I've heard it four times lately—concerns two old maids who owned a drug store. An excitable young lady came in all aflutter declaring she wanted to make love to every man she met. "What can you give me for it?" she inquired. The old maids went behind the prescription counter and finally one of them came out and said: "My sister and I have been talking it over. We have decided to give you the drug store and $700."

They've certainly cleaned up that one, all right.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

OFTEN wives and children try to drive husbands and fathers beyond their ability.

There are many successful men who would not have advanced as they have if they had not been assisted and prodded first by their wives and later by their offspring.

But there are some men who realize that they are doing absolutely as well as they can with their limited capacity.

Most men want to be successful.

This desire, however, is more particularly that they may provide comfort and luxuries for those of whom they are proud—their own families.

Life becomes drab and uninteresting to the man who is censured for lack of money when he is doing his best.

The wife who demands more than her husband is willing to give because he is not able to keep up with what more well-to-do fathers provide, is wrong.

The children who cry out for the thing denied them because such-and-such a child has one, are thorns that lessen a man's capacity for work.

A discouraged, disheartened man cannot work well.

He must give undisturbed thought and service to win any degree of success.

There is nothing gained and much lost by trying to draw blood from a stone as far as ability to give is concerned.
